STUDY PLAN FOR R. R. AID

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(UP)—Chairman Wheeler, D. Mont., of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee said after a conference with President Roosevelt today that he would be glad to cooperate in a comprehensive program for railroad rehabilitation.

Wheeler came to the White House to discuss with the President the comprehensive plan for improving rail conditions submitted by the special railroad advisory committee which reported to the White House last week.

Plans Action
Wheeler said he engaged in a general discussion of rail conditions with Mr. Roosevelt. He said he did not agree with all the findings of the special rail committee but that the report could be used as a basis for legislation in the new Congress.

Wheeler said he planned to confer with Chairman Lea, D. Calif., of the House Interstate Commerce Committee on the railroad situation and expressed belief that "some" railroad legislation could be enacted.

Defends Rate Clause
The Montana Senator declared he is not committed on any phases of the report but does object to proposed repeal of the long-and-short haul provisions of the present interstate commerce act which was recommended by the advisory committee. This clause prohibits railroads from charging lower rates on a long freight haul than the sum of rates for shorter distances in the same direction.

"There was really nothing new in the advisory report," Wheeler said. "I told Mr. Roosevelt that I

NEW PLAN TO FEED PRISONERS URGED

Recommendation that the county take over from the sheriff the feeding of prisoners in county jail was made today to the county supervisors by Sheriff-elect Jesse L. Elliott, who estimated a possible minimum saving of $5000 per year by changing from the present plan of feeding by the sheriff under contract with the supervisors.

The present arrangement will be scrapped January 2 under provisions of the county salary ordinance, which requires all fees be turned into the county treasury. Elliott outlined a plan whereby the county would employ a steward in the county jail to take charge of feeding the prisoners and to cooperate with the purchasing agent in buying foodstuffs.

He also suggested establishment

Veteran Official In VFW Attack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(UP)—National Commander Edwin O. Perrin of the American Veterans Association, accused the Veterans of Foreign Wars today of sponsoring unwarranted and expensive pension legislation for World War veterans and dependents at the sacrifice of national defense needs.

Perrin's attack on the VFW was made in behalf of his group, which opposed prepayment of the soldiers' bonus and claims a membership of 13,000 veterans. He charged that the VFW program is the initial step toward universal veterans' pensions which would cost the taxpayers at least $1,000,000 annually by 1963.

He said that VFW has issued a statement to its local posts throughout the country emphasizing that the government "must give pensions" to World War veterans unable to find employment, and favoring payments to all needy widows and orphans regardless of whether the veteran died of a service-connected cause.

Mexico Bans Cattle Exports

JUAREZ, Chih., Mex., Dec. 27.—(UP)—Mexican stockmen in this border community learned today that the department of economy, fearing a meat shortage, had issued an embargo against exportation of cattle to the United States.

Under the embargo, cattlemen must obtain a permit from the department before shipping livestock. G. R. Bernal, custom broker at El Paso, Tex., said since recent adoption of new tariff agreements between the United States and Mexico, there had been a heavy influx of cattle into the Texas ranch country and that there had been an advance in the price of meat in Mexico.

Loyalist Defenses Battered By Rebels

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER, Dec. 27.—(UP)—Spanish insurgent armies battered down strong Loyalist defenses today in two thrusts toward vital Catalan communications centers.

Advancing slowly but steadily despite concentration of crack Loyalist carabinieri and assault guards, Rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco's aviation, artillery and infantry were reported close to the main objectives of the first phase of their win-the-war offensive.

Seize Vital Area
The most important advance appeared, according to insurgent advisers, to be in the Tremp sector of a general offensive along the Catalan Segre river front. There, the rebels reported seizure of Cap Sierra which dominates a communications line between Seo de Urgell and Artesa, which is the chief immediate objective of great strategic importance. The insurgents, advancing south from Vilanova claimed they were in sight of the Segre river which must be crossed to reach Artesa.

The second important advance was to the south, in the Llerda sector, where Borja was the principal objective. In that area the Nationalists occupied the villages of Cogull and Aspa and, after

17-YEAR-OLD YOUTH ADMITS 125 THEFTS

NAPA, Calif., Dec. 27.—(UP)—Jack Ramsey, 17-year-old Phoenix, Ariz., youth who authorities said was responsible for "one man crime wave" in this area, was arrested today and confessed, police said, to perpetrating at least 125 robberies in California cities.

Captured by grocery clerks when he attempted to evade payment of $1 for food, young Ramsey confessed to police a series of depredations extending from Long Beach to Eureka, and including safe cracking, residence looting and thefts of gold from dentists' offices.

Lists Robberies
Police said he outlined a fast and furious crime career by listing the number of robberies he accomplished in various cities. The list: Long Beach, 20; Colton, 9; Fresno, 7; Vallejo, 9; Stockton, 15; Sacramento, 4; Colton, 9; Petaluma, 6; Eureka, 8; Napa, 26; Willits, 3, and Woodland, 1.

Ramsey confessed, among other crimes in Napa, to blowing a safe in the Safeway store here, obtaining $1400.

He said he also blew a safe in a Napa theater and got $55, according to police.

Thousands in Loot
Authorities said Ramsey made no estimate of the total amount of loot he had robbed, but they said it probably would run into several thousand dollars.

Ramsey said he had an accomplice who helped him on the "safe jobs," but he refused to identify him.

He said he stole an expensive diamond ring from a residence here and gold from dentists' offices here and in Woodland.

Police Chief Eugene C. Roirdan said the arrest of Ramsey apparently solved a series of robberies and petty thefts in Napa extending over a 16 months period.

Laguna Beach "Gasless"

For the first time in 10 years, Laguna Beach was without gas service for a few hours today, the lack of gas being ascribed by Fred Merker, district manager for the Southern Counties Gas company as mechanical failure.

The company immediately rushed 150 men and all available equipment to the beach city to check supply lines and to notify users to turn off all apparatus. The company serves 1900 meters in Laguna.

Engineers from Los Angeles headquarters were sent to the Artists' Colony in an effort to learn the reason for the gas failure. Service was resumed as workers checked over lines, with most of the lines being in service by 11 a. m. Gas service stopped about 3 a. m.

Safe No Puzzle To Burglars

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27.—(UP)—Thomas Kysilka, a dairy owner, was pleased today when he found that burglars had broken open his office safe.

"I bought that safe a month ago and hadn't been able to get it open because the combination didn't work," Kysilka said. "There wasn't anything in it either but some old milk bills."

ESCAPE DEATH

YOSEMITE, Cal., Dec. 27.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. George Gregson, 6 were under treatment for injuries today after their automobile plunged over a 150 foot embankment near here. Mrs. Gregson, daughter of Dr. Edwin Janss, Los Angeles physician, was the most seriously injured.

JAPAN GETS U.S. PROTEST

TOKYO, Dec. 27.—(UP)—American Ambassador Joseph Grew has advised the Japanese government that the United States is more interested in results than in Japanese plans as regard the future status of American interests in China, it was understood today.

Grew visited Hachiro Arita, foreign minister, last night. It was understood that he made unusually strong representations against Japanese interference with foreign interests in China and said that the United States government was dissatisfied with Japan's replies to previous protests.

Japan Stands Pat
Both Grew and Sir Robert Craigie, the British ambassador, were understood to have inquired of Arita in separate talks regarding the proposed abolition of the extra-territorial privileges of foreign powers in China. Arita was said to have told both that he thought it unnecessary to go beyond the statement made previously by Prince Fumimaro Koye, the premier, foreshadowing the eventual abolition of extra-territoriality.

Arita was said to have commented that the best method of

FDR'S SON BLASTS MEXICAN POLICIES

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 27.—(UP)—Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son, said that Mexico had taken advantage of this country's good neighbor policy by expropriating oil properties, and that, "until Mexico makes an overture of friendship, I for one must subscribe to the theory that actions speak louder than words."

"The United States," he said over a Texas radio network last night in a weekly news commentary, "faced as she is with the conflicting ideals of the Monroe doctrine and the good neighbor policy, is embarrassed."

Nazis Sex Trade
"Not only is she embarrassed, but she stands to lose some $17,000,000 in trade with Mexico which will be transferred to Nazi Germany under the terms of recent barter agreements."

"It would appear on the surface that the good neighbor policy has gone far enough. It is obvious something has to be done. Mexico has acted, but as yet the United States government has not begun to act. Our good neighbor policy apparently is not enough."

"Confiscation"
He acknowledged Mexico's financial straits and its difficulty of keeping on a sound monetary basis. He said that all the Mexican oil could be used in this country and recalled that "only a few months ago President Cardenas said seriously that he would sell oil only to the democracies."

The President's son said that the expropriation might be termed confiscation since the Mexican government, without regard for litigation in the Mexican supreme court, was going ahead with sale of the oil to other countries.

Hand "Bitten"
Roosevelt charged that Mexico had received the lion's share of benefits under our "good neighbor policy" and had "bitten the hand" that helped it.

He cited as benefits to Mexico the 1927 negotiations for new silver purchases and the margin of benefits enjoyed by Mexico over other nations in the "most favored nations" clause of tariff statutes.

Alaska Storm On Way Southward

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—(UP)—A storm which formed over the Gulf of Alaska and moved down the Pacific coast may reach California this week, the weather bureau indicated today.

The bureau forecast southwest gales off the coast of Washington and Oregon tonight and tomorrow, with rain in Northern California and frost in Central California.

Additional snow was forecast at high altitudes of the Sierra Nevada, with local frost in the Sacramento, Santa Clara, Salinas and San Joaquin valleys.

Cloudy and cool weather was predicted for the San Francisco bay area.

Famous Artist Called By Death

DEL MONTE, Calif., Dec. 27.—(UP)—John Francis McComas, 64, internationally-known water color artist who made the Monterey cypress trees famous in his paintings, died at his Pebble Beach home today.

Born in Tasmania in 1847, McComas came to the United States in his youth and has lived in this area since then. He was especially noted for his paintings of cypress trees against a background of the Monterey shoreline, and his desert scenes.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at the Del Monte chapel. Interment will be at Cypress Point.

$2,000,000 IS STATE REQUEST

Seeking to halt the gradual disappearance of California watersheds, and save the state from the fate of ancient Bagdad, its counterpart of long ago, state forestry officials will seek an appropriation of $2,000,000 from the incoming legislature, according to a statement of Wendell Robie, member of the state board of forestry, made public here today. Orange county's appropriation would be $14,670 for the biennium.

Robie depicted increased fire protection as a profitable investment, not only in preventing huge losses from forest fires, but also big savings in insurance rates.

He cited an annual saving of $250,000 per year to Kern county, in two county-wide insurance reductions as a return on the annual expenditure of $213,627.73. The finest rural fire protection service in the United States is maintained in that county, the county paying $199,587.73, the state adding the rest.

Another example of the value of protection to water supply is contained in the experience of Santa Barbara, said Robie. That city spent $800,000 on construction of Gibraltar dam in 1920, thus providing 14,500 acre feet storage capacity.

Cuts Down Storage
But four major forest fires above the dam have their watersheds, rains silted up their reservoir until it now has only $170 acre feet of storage left. During the last two years the city built two silt dams to protect their reservoir, but one is already filled and the other is 30 per cent full. Robie says there will be nothing left to do but raise Gibraltar dam 40 feet, which would cost $2,000,000, the amount the legislature will be asked to appropriate for protection throughout the state.

The state forestry division now serves 32,000,000 acres with 87 pumper tanks, some owned by counties, 171 transportation trucks and 14 tractors. The new appropriation would add 115 pumps, 15 bulldozer tractors, 14 transportation trucks, 101 pickups for light crews and 15 larger transportation trucks, besides hose, hand tools and other equipment, as well as equipment maintenance and wages.

Bagdad Of Old
The state would pay $655,300 in wages, $642,350 for equipment, $414,100 for operating expenses, or a total of $1,711,750 for the biennium. Counties would supply $100,580 for wages, $69,715 for equipment, $22,200 for operation, or a total of $291,495.

Bagdad of old, said Robie, had a population about equal to that of Los Angeles and San Francisco. It had California's climate, forests and streams. It also had forest fires, which finally denuded the watersheds and Bagdad went back to waste land.

Since 1849 California's forest areas have been steadily dwindling, Robie pointed out.

ELECTRIFICATION OF FARMS TO BE TOPIC

A discussion of the use of electricity on the farm, particularly in the poultry industry, will be the highlight of a meeting of the poultry department of the Orange county Farm Bureau at 7:30 p. m. today at the bureau offices. It was announced by C. J. Marks, executive secretary.

Two speakers from the Southern California Edison company, George J. Wheat and R. J. McMullen, and Ross E. Crane, assistant farm advisor, will be presented by Chairman Frank E. Jones.

Wheat will discuss the general theme of electrification of the farm while McMullen will limit his talk to electrical poultry equipment. Crane will discuss probable feed prices in 1939.

G. H. DOW DIES IN SANTA ANA HOSPITAL

George Henry Dow, 73, a laborer, of 1111 West Second street, died yesterday at Santa Ana Valley hospital after an illness lasting one month.

Born in Corvallis, Ore., Mr. Dow came to Santa Ana 27 years ago where he had resided until the time of his death. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Josephine Dow, and one son, Lloyd H. Dow.

Friends may assemble at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Brown and Wagner Colonial chapel for funeral services to be held at Westminster Memorial park where burial will be made.

Vegetable Juices Topic of Address

"How to Be Young and Well at Any Old Age With Raw Vegetable Juices" is the subject of an address to be delivered by Dr. William Howard Hay at the American Legion hall here at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Dr. Hay's address is being sponsored by Mrs. Lena Sanders and Mrs. Winnora Bonds, local dealers in raw vegetable juices, as well as others interested in the "eat-your-way-to-health" movement.

Norman W. Walker, scientist, author and inventor, also will appear on the program with Dr. Hay. The meeting is free and open to the public.

JACKSON PLANS RETIREMENT

Logan Jackson, sheriff of Orange county, declared this morning he had never applied for the office of chief of police of the city of Orange, a position which was filled shortly after Jackson made the statement. Jackson states that he has no intention of entering public life on his retirement from the sheriff's office the first of the year, and he states that he will devote his time to his private interests.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness and sympathy and also their beautiful floral offerings during our recent bereavement.

One big attraction in Southern California is the 'Tournament of Roses'—and another is certainly the clean atmosphere!

For, everything—from clothes to houses—stays cleaner when chimneys are smokeless. And there are no smoky chimneys in homes that use gas for all heating needs.

In well-adjusted modern appliances this fuel gives immaculate service whether you are using the most intense heat or just a tiny "bead" of flame.

And remember, gas brings you a number of advantages in addition to cleanliness. Two of its major qualities are convenience and very low cost. Make your New Year happier with a modern all-gas kitchen!

Four Injured In Eight S. A. Week-End Accident

GARDEN GROVE MAN IS VICTIM

Raymond L. Hapes, 31, well-known Garden Grove resident, was one of four persons injured in a vehicular accident in Santa Ana during the Christmas holiday week-end. Eight accidents were reported.

Officers Chet Gross and William Nielsen, who responded to an emergency call, were credited by a local doctor with saving Hapes' life by giving first aid. According to reports, Hapes was driving west on Edinway at Gurnsey when his car sideswiped one driven by Mrs. Pearl M. Friend, 44, 2226 Towner, Santa Ana. The accident occurred late Saturday night.

Hapes suffered many cuts about the face and one cut severed a large artery in his face. He lost much blood. His companion, Virginia Henderson, also of Garden Grove, suffered shock. Both were rushed to Santa Ana Valley hospital by the Orange County Ambulance service. Hapes assertedly attempted to pass Mrs. Friend's car, traveling in the same direction, and was going too fast to avoid the collision. Mrs. Friend was ticketed for failing to have a driver's license.

N. J. Pluneda, 38, Route 1, Box 1, Santa Ana, was charged with drunk driving and being drunk Sunday following an accident at Fifth and Sullivan. Officers J. E. Stephenson and Herman Stahl made the arrest. Pluneda's car and one driven by Frank Barreaga, Route 1, Garden Grove, collided. Pluneda was cut about the chin.

Motorcycle Hits Dog
Jack B. Minter, 610 South Garney, suffered injury to left ankle, left elbow, both knees and suffered pavement burns yesterday afternoon when his motorcycle struck a dog as he rode north on Garney at Bishop. His motorcycle skidded 100 feet, police reported.

Report Collision
Paul DeSoto, 23, 627 South Main, was arrested on drunk driving and drunk charges Saturday after his car damaged another at First and Bristol. He was pronounced "very drunk." A truck driven by Miss Tomiko Miki, Redondo Beach, and a car driven by J. E. Liebig, 829 Spurgeon, Santa Ana, collided at 15th and Main. Both vehicles were stopped for a signal and the Liebig car struck the truck when Miss Miki slowed down to allow Officer W. H. Hart to make a left turn, the officer reported.

At First and Broadway Sunday morning at 8:30, cars driven by F. A. Munsell, 1112 South Broadway, and Ray T. Cook, 520 North Birch, collided, according to officers Stephenson and Stahl, but none was injured. Officers Heard and Lane reported an accident at Sixth and French Sunday morning although none was injured. The cars were driven by Vern Quick, 925 French, and Ralph Segler, 708 Lacy. The Segler car was overturned on its side.

Gallienne Home Scene Of Party
HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 27.—Yuletide traditions of the Isle of Armory were re-enacted in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gallienne on Eleventh street Monday when the children, grand-children and close friends of the hosts gathered to celebrate Christmas. Festivities began in the morning and lasted into the late evening.

Gathering around a glowing Christmas tree, many gifts were presented by Saint Nick. Christmas carols were led by a son, W. H. Gallienne. A grandson, William H. Gallienne, Jr., entertained with solos on the cornet.

A turkey dinner was enjoyed at noon by the 21 merry-makers. An evening meal the table was spread with a large pickled ham, delicious trifle, plum pudding in which numerous dimes were secreted, mince pies, acorn, rock cakes and English cherry cake.

Present guests the hosts were a daughter, Mrs. Ralph C. Huff, Mr. Huff and their children, Arthur, May and Arlene and Mrs. Al Casebeer (Mary Edith Huff) Mr. Casebeer, pastor of the Lawndale Christian church and their daughter, Gladys Kathryn, Marjorie and their daughter, Mrs. W. Funnert; another son, W. H. Gallienne, Miss Opal May, William Gallienne, Jr., Miss Rebecca Walters, Purdy Thillits and Phil Reading.

BABY RETURNED AFTER 2-DAY 'MYSTERY TRIP' WITH COUPLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. — (UP) — Missing since Christmas Day, two-year-old Patricia Brady was returned to her parents today by Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams, who took the child with them to "buy a present" Sunday afternoon, promising to be "right back."

"We just got lost. That's all I remember," said the boy. "Mrs. Williams told Mrs. James Brady, Patricia's mother, saw a story of the baby's disappearance in a newspaper."

The Bradys had met the Williams through relatives. The mother and father were sitting in their living room, anxiously waiting word from police, when they had asked to search for Patricia.

CANADIAN BLIZZARD TUMBLES TEMPERATURES THROUGH EAST

A Canadian blizzard swept eastward across the north central states today and sent temperatures tumbling to sub-zero levels.

The storm centered in a great mass of cold air extending from the Arctic regions to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Rocky Mountains to the Ohio River Valley, U. S. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd at Chicago said the cold would encompass the entire eastern two-thirds of the country by tomorrow.

A 40-mile-an-hour gale, swept heavy snows across the Dakotas, Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin and piled 10-foot drifts on highways.

At Chicago, officials of major airlines reported they had ordered all planes grounded. They believe they would be able to resume flights to the southward by East bound mail was transferred to trains last night.

Minnesota highway department officials said many portions of state were tightly snowed. Scores of automobiles stalled in ditches and snowdrifts. Blizzards, particularly in eastern Dakota and Northern Minnesota, were at a standstill throughout.

Minnesota road crews were attempting for a time to keep highways clear, but blinding snow, which reduced visibility to less than 50 feet forced them to abandon their plan.

Some weeks before, Brown told Roosevelt that he was interested in a federal office intended to return to the state of law. However, he will make a final decision on the matter shortly.

Now, with the date of the reorganization bill in doubt and the

Wall Street Gifts
At the annual Polaris of the New York Financial Writers Association the following gifts were presented to honored guests:

To Bill Douglas, hard-hitting chairman of the Securities & Exchange Commission, a black-and-white whip.

To Wendell Willkie, head of Commonwealth & Southern and bitter TVA foe, a rubber yardstick.

To Thomas Lamont, J. P. Morgan partner, recently criticized for not divulging the embezzlement of Richard Whitney, a copy of the popular book, "How To Make Friends and Influence People."

Safe-Douglas stole the show when he tossed aside a prepared speech and delivered a witty satire on recent Wall Street events. The banker-broker audience rose to its feet and cheered.

Aviation Schools
Plans have been completed secretly for the launching of aviation training courses in a number of colleges in February, the beginning of the second semester of the current school year.

The establishment of training centers for pilots and mechanics in the higher educational institutions is a major phase of the national defense program. Military experts consider this of equal importance with the creation of an industrial plant to turn out fighting ships. Lack of trained personnel is the only real weakness of Germany's air force, for example.

Colleges courses to be opened in February will be largely experimental, providing experience for the large scale training program to be launched at the beginning of

CHURCH RITES UNITE COUPLE

Police Chief

G. W. Coltrane, newly appointed chief of police of Orange, will assume his duties January 2, when George H. Franzen, outgoing chief, takes over his duties as chief criminal deputy of the sheriff's office. Coltrane has been a member of the Orange police force for the past 10 years.

CHURCH RITES UNITE COUPLE

ORANGE, Dec. 27.—Tall white tapers gleamed at the altar and lighted the First Presbyterian church last night at the 8 o'clock ceremony which united in marriage Miss Grace Ruth Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Peterson, 168 North Center street, and Harold Benson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Troutman, West Chapman avenue.

Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the church, read the service. White anemones in tall baskets and palms formed the background for the ceremony. Gown Of Velvet The bride, a lovely blonde, wore an Empire gown of ivory chiffon velvet, fashioned with a court train. Her veil was held with a circlet of gardenias and she carried a handkerchief which belonged to the great-grandmother of the bridegroom. One single white orchid was placed on the white prayerbook the bride carried and falling from it was a shower of tiny white blossoms held with white ribbons. The bride was given in marriage by her father with whom she entered the church.

Matron of honor was the aunt of the bride, Mrs. Paul Benton, in poudre blue velvet while bridesmaid was Miss Bonnie Benson, sister of the bridegroom, in electric blue velvet. Frocks of both attendants were made Empire style and both carried muffs to which were fastened small bouquets of roses. Best man was Alvin Peterson, brother of the bride, and the bridegroom, and an uncle of the bride, Arthur Jacobson.

Program Presented ... Organist was David Craighead, of Santa Ana who played the wedding marches and who gave a program of organ music preceding the ceremony. Donald Krueger sang "Because" and "O Promise Me." About 250 persons were present at the ceremony and the reception in the adult auditorium where parents of the young couple received guests. The table for which refreshments were served was decorated in white and silver and the bride's cake was decorated with lilies of the valley.

The bride is a graduate of the Orange Union High school and has been employed at the Owens Roofing company office in Santa Ana for the past two years and the bridegroom is a graduate of the University of California and the Anaheim Union High school. He has a position as an engineer at Houston, Tex., where the young couple will reside following a honeymoon trip. They are to return to Orange Saturday before leaving for Texas. For traveling the new Mrs. Benson chose a fuchsia ensemble with fur coat, fur hat and an orchid corsage.

GOODWIN FAMILY IN YULE AFFAIR

ORANGE, Dec. 27.—The annual Christmas party of the family of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Goodwin, West Palmyra avenue, was held Christmas day at the Goodwin home, with all their children and grandchildren present. After a noon dinner they gathered around the Christmas tree, where a short program was presented.

Miss Catherine Ann Goodwin, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Goodwin, sang "Silent Night" and several nursery rhymes. Mrs. Mary Ripley, mother of the hostess, gave a reading. Miss Ruth Frieberg sang "Gloria Mia" from "The Firefly." Mrs. Cora Flynn gave a short talk. Gifts were exchanged and a pleasant surprise was a telegram from the daughters of Mrs. Flynn, sending greetings from Washington, D. C., and Omaha, Neb.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ripley and Lloyd, Harry and Harold, of San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Goodwin, San Juan Capistrano; Mrs. Cora Flynn, Omaha, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Drilling, Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hickson and Jackie; Mr. and Mrs. Dale V. Goodwin and Catherine Ann, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Goodwin and Charles Seal Beach; Miss Ruth Frieberg, Watertown, S. D.; from Orange were Mrs. Mary J. Ripley, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Case and Eleanor; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Frevert and sons, Dean, Billy, Don and Ralph, as well as the hosts.

Mrs. H. F. Taylor Hostess To Group

ORANGE, Dec. 27.—Small Christmas trees and evergreen boughs decorated the home of Mrs. H. F. Taylor, 460 South Orange street recently, when the October April group, of the Woman's Fellowship of the Presbyterian church enjoyed a Christmas party. Mrs. E. H. Smith, president of the Fellowship, was a special guest. Miss Bertha Youngs read

SERIAL STORY

SKI'S THE LIMIT

CAST OF CHARACTERS
SALLY BLAIR—heroine. She had everything that popularity could wish for, except...
DAN REYNOLDS—her boy. He might have had Sally but he was king on the scene.
COREY PORTER—was king of the social whirl. So... But go on with the story.

Yesterday, Dan has told Sally that he will come back again and she waits for him, realizing that he fits into her world as no other man.

CHAPTER XIII

SALLY had been right—Dan did sit in with herself and her father. Dinner was a very pleasant affair. Mr. Blair led the young man on, drawing him into conversation, encouraging him to give his viewpoint on various topics, business, politics, world problems, even bringing him to talk of more personal matters, as well.

Dan proved to be a most interesting talker, once he forgot his reserve, and what is even more important, a good listener. Sally's father appeared to enjoy his company thoroughly, so much so that as the lovely spring evening wore on, Sally wondered if she was going to have Dan to herself or not.

"I've about talked myself hoarse," her father said, throwing away his cigar after one last puff. "Now I'm going on indoors"—they had been making their tour of the garden—"and leave you young people to yourselves." He had that twinkle in his eye as he beamed on them. He thought what a fine looking pair of youngsters they were, his Sally looking prettier than usual, it seemed, in her fluffy white dress with its wide skirt and blue sash, her dark curls held in place with a matching ribbon, her dark eyes bright, this young Reynolds—and a finer boy Sam Blair had yet to meet—trim and well groomed in his neat gray suit, his gray eyes so steady, his face a bit flushed up, too, from the earnestness of some of his pet theories which he had been expounding.

"It's too fine a night to go in," the boy protested. "We're glad of your company, sir. I can't begin to thank you for your hospitality, or tell you how much I have appreciated it."

"You will always find a welcome in our home, won't you, Sally?" Mr. Blair returned in his hearty way. There was no nonsense about this boy. Maybe because he realized that life was a serious, as well as a beautiful gift. Maybe because he had to earn his way. Take boys like young Corey, whose fathers had too much money, their paths were made too smooth for them; maybe it was not altogether their fault if they did not develop as much character as they should.

"No, I'll be going indoors," Sally's father said. He had not forgotten what it was to be young on a night like this. "It is a fine night, as you say, my lad. But there's also a touch of dampness that won't do this old man's rheumatics any good. You two youngsters look at the moon and talk about less serious matters for a spell. And don't forget to come out and share dinner with us again. Whether you've papers to deliver from Frank Devon's office or not."

He chuckled to himself as he went on indoors. What a matchmaker he was turning out to be! But if the day had to come when he had to lose his little girl Sam Blair had satisfied himself that he would not mind losing her so much to a fine young man like this Reynolds. Oh, he had had his own motives in procuring the lad a job, in inviting him into his home. It was just as well to size a person up by personal contact.

"What a lucky girl you are, Sally Blair," Dan said. "To have such a man for your father. You must be mighty proud of him."

Sally said, "I most certainly am." She was so pleased that her father and Dan had got on so well. She might have known they would. That only went to prove how right she was in knowing that Dan did belong in her world—the real world that lay underneath the gaudy, glittering surface. Her father had been a poor boy like Dan once; he had had to make his own way and he had succeeded by his own efforts.

"I didn't know," Dan was saying, "that your father was a client of Devon and Devons. I certainly was surprised when Mr. Frank Devon asked me to bring those papers out here this evening. It certainly was a coincidence, wasn't it?"

SALLY laughed lightly. She gathered her wide skirt carefully as she sat down on a stone bench at the far end of the rose garden, a bench that would give them a box-seat, if they wanted to look at the moon, as her father had advised them. "Yes, it was, wasn't it?" she said. Some day she would tell Dan the whole truth of the matter. That her father had got him his position at Devon and Devons. That, as a matter of fact, Sam Blair was the biggest stockholder in the firm. But this was not the time, or the place. Not with a moon like that.

"Aren't you going to sit down?" Sally asked, dimpling up at him. Her father had said they should talk of less serious matters. "Aren't you going to look at the moon, Dan Reynolds? See, it's looking at us!"

It's wondering what we are thinking about and if we really appreciate a lovely night like this. It was a night made just for looking at the moon. A night of soft spring air that was like a caress, of sighing breezes and whispering small insects. A night made, perhaps, just for them.

Dan sat down beside her. He said, "I'm thinking what a lucky guy I am to be here—looking at this moon. You know, Sally, everything is a coincidence in a way. Beginning with the accident, ending with my coming here. Have I told you how that came about?" His gray eyes rested on her earnestly. How pretty she was, like some silver princess in her white dress in the moonlight. Sally Blair, queen of her small secure universe in which she still felt an alien, would continue to feel so until he made his own way, conquered his bad leg, proven himself.

"No, you haven't told me," Sally said. She wished he would let that wait until some other time and place, too. She wished she need not keep the truth from him, even for a little while. Suppose he found out, before she had a chance to tell him? Suppose he misunderstood again?

BUT she must not, she would not think of things like that. Not with the moon looking down on them, not on a night like this.

"Tell me another time," Sally said. "Let's just be happy tonight, shall we? Happy and gay. Let's just be glad that you are here, whether it's a coincidence or luck or fate, or whatever it is. Let's be content to know that we are friends."

"That should be enough for anyone," Dan returned gravely. Then he smiled at her. He picked up her hand, so small and soft, that lay between them. "I'll be content with that—for a while, Sally Blair. But not for always."

He raised her hand toward his lips—for a breathless moment, during which Sally's heart nearly stopped beating, she thought he was going to put it against them. But instead he put it gently down between them once more. "Some day—when I've licked a few things that have rather got the best of me now," Dan said, "some day I'll tell you why I shan't be satisfied with that always. But we must wait awhile, Sally. You will wait, won't you—until then?"

"Yes," Sally said, and her voice held all the breathless wonder of the beauty of the night, "I'll wait, Dan."

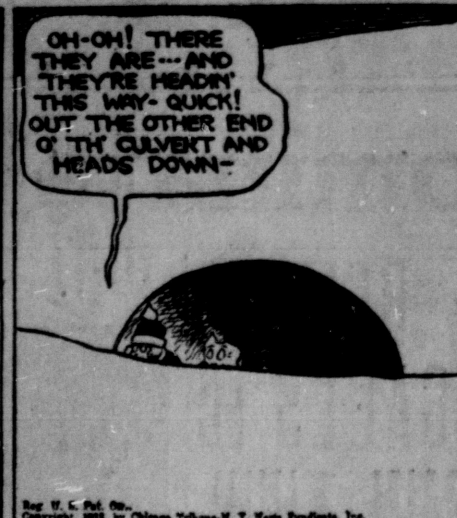

Forever would not be too long to wait, if that waiting brought what she hoped it would bring for them.

GOOD POSTURE

A good posture is not a gift. It cannot be put on a child's body by command. "Stand up," won't do the work no matter how often it is thundered at the drooping, slouching, bowed child.

Good posture is the outward expression of inward strength. The strength, the power and the grace that holds a body upright and sends it along gracefully, smoothly, comes from mental and physical health. A healthy, happy child will carry himself well. Training in athletics, dancing and rhythmic movements of any sort, add style, but they do not create the power that good posture demands. Health does that.

How can we give health to the child of poor posture? We cannot give it to him, but we might be able to lead him into a state of mind which would move him to create it for himself. As a start we might get him to read, or failing that, we might read to him. Dr. C. Ward Crampton's book that teaches training for health.

Such a child, boy or girl, needs medical care first. The physician in charge of him gives him a careful examination and records what he finds. Then he lays out a course of treatment, usually no medicine, and asks for the co-operation of the child, the parents and the teachers who are concerned in the child's problem.

The poor posture starts when the child begins to fall below standard in health. Often it is not noticed until the child is entering adolescence, when, because of the strain on his body, his health is lessened and all deficiencies are more marked. At this time many school children are found with bad teeth. These must be attended to immediately. They are a source of trouble until they are cleaned and filled. It is a crime against childhood to extract teeth that should be permanent. We should have dental care for school children from entrance to graduation. A clean mouth filled with healthy teeth is one long step toward good health and good posture.

Deep, free, rhythmic breathing is essential to health. The nose and throat should be free of obstruction, clear of disease, in order to insure this essential function of the child's body. Too many school children are found with obstructed breath. Adenoids are not normal growth and must be removed. Healthy tonsils are normal growths and should be kept in health. Diseased ones must be removed, but only diseased ones. Normal breathing gives a splendid lift to the body and is another essential step in good posture, the expression of good health.

All children need activity. School children sit still for too many hours of the day. Free play, organized and supervised, but free in that the game is the thing, not the stilted gymnastic drill, is as essential.

FRIENDS ENTERTAINED

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lamkin and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Reafsnider entertained a group of friends at the former's home recently. Various games were played during the evening, with prizes going to Mrs. Bud Thompson, Mrs. Frank Waer and Mrs. Clarence Fowler.

The hostess served a chow mein supper to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Bud Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Otto McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waer, Miss Helen Waer, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Killingbeck, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Maybree, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Williams, of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. Hart Chesley, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Hunt, of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marrell, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reafsnider and Dr. Norman Jesch, of Garden Grove.

ABOUT PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Coach Bill Cook developed such a terrific cold he had to lug him to the desert over the holidays... with a gun strapped over his shoulder. Sad case.

"Tex" Oliver, ever restless, is off for the National Coaches' association convention at Chicago. Will be home just long enough to attend the Rose Bowl struggle; then it's back to Oregon. The Oliver heir is due in February.

John Neubauer, the Fullerton newshound, says it came to him late one night. He couldn't sleep, got to thinking on a favorite subject: how to beat the horses. Suddenly a great light dawned! He leaped out of bed, outlined a system that has proved infallible... Must have been a dream, John. It can't be done.

Larry Lutz, Santa Ana's erstwhile All-America tackle, came home all the way from Berkeley (passing up the Bear-Georgia Tech game) to chew Christmas turkey. But there was method in his madness. He picked up some folding money playing some pro ball at Gilmore stadium yesterday with the Salinas Packers.

Fred Erdhaus is mulling over a professional offer from the Philadelphia Eagles but the ex-Don and thinks he'll pass it up in order to graduate from Arizona a year from February. Erdhaus is currently en route to Chicago with Arizona's basketball team.

"I hear," nassled Walter Winchell into your radio last Sunday night, that Kenny Washington, the great U. C. L. A. Negro back, has been in a Los Angeles hospital for three weeks with a concussion... It must have been two other guys. Washington made three touchdowns for U. C. L. A. in far off Honolulu yesterday. Perhaps Winchell got his information from the same "reliable source" that told him Bernie Bierman was replacing H. H. Jones at U. S. C.

Morning mail brings Jack Kynel's "Future Book" on the Santa Ana Handicap. Big-Hearted Jack offers 6-1 on Seabiscuit; 12-1 on Ligaroti and Specify; 20-1 on Stagehand and Dauber; 25-1 on Heelfly, Porter's Mite, Ossabaw and Pasteurized; 30-1 on Cravat, Jacola and Main Man; 40-1 on Espos and Marica; still in the east and Xalapa, Clonin, Whichee, Sarteada and Yale o'Nine... Gerald, my dream winner, is 200-1. One of us must be wrong.

Al Krueger, Bill Fisk, John Stonebreaker and Ralph Stanley get the publicity... but it is the private opinion of Southern Cal's coaching staff that unsung Bob Winslow is Troy's No. 1 end.

The University of Arizona has offered Orlan Landreth (successor to Tex Oliver) a new contract calling for a salary hoist, but Landreth may not accept. His health is bad and he might retire from active coaching in favor of a departmental chief's job somewhere... perhaps Long Beach.

S. C. HALTS TEMPLE CAGE STRING AT 16

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The 16-game winning streak of Temple university basketball team, last season's unofficial intercollegiate champions, was snapped today as result of a 46 to 34 defeat by Southern California.

In the other half of a double-header before 10,476 spectators at Convention hall, last night, the University of Colorado defeated St. Joseph's, 44 to 39.

The Owls-Trojans game was one of the roughest ever played here between top flight collegiate teams, with 19 personal fouls being called on Southern California and 13 on Temple.

BRUINS, BEARS LOSE TO OHIO, NEBRASKA

BERKELEY (UP)—Ohio State and the University of Nebraska basketball teams were one up on California and U. C. L. A. today after the first game of their inter-sectional round-robin series.

Ohio State took an early lead over the Uclans and were never headed. The final score was 46-38.

In the second game, Nebraska made penalty shots count and emerged with a 46-43 win over California.

FOOTBALL COACHES BEGIN 4-DAY MEET

CHICAGO (UP)—Football coaches from colleges throughout the country open their four-day annual meeting today with changes in the basic rules unlikely.

Discussions on abolishing the point after touchdown, moving the goal posts back to the goal lines and adoption of the professional pass rule, which allows a pass to be thrown anywhere from behind the line of scrimmage, probably will be heard, but indications were that such proposals would be pigeon-holed.

S. C. REMAINS 2-1; GAELS TO ENTRAIN THUR.

(By United Press) PASADENA (UP)—Southern California remained a 2 to 1 favorite today to defeat Duke in the Rose Bowl despite California's 13 to 0 victory over Georgia Tech yesterday.

It had been expected that if California scored a one sided triumph, or even won, that the odds would lengthen. Duke beat Tech only 6-0 earlier this season but betting men remembered that Tech's coach, Bill Alexander, admitted that Duke was "content" with a single touchdown. S. C. beat California 13-7.

The Ducks worked yesterday on passing, kicking and running. U. S. C. took a light, two-hour workout on dummy scrimmage and an offensive signal drill. Coach Howard Jones said the routine tactics, which have been going on now for 10 days, would be continued and that there would be no heavy scrimmage.

ST. MARY'S OFF FOR TEXAS THURSDAY

MORAGA (UP)—St. Mary's Gaels, bound for Dallas and the Cotton Bowl football game with Texas Tech, will leave by train Thursday, retracing a portion of the trip they took last October on the way to New York.

En route to their inter-sectional game with Fordham, the Gaels stopped at Lubbock, Tex., home of Texas Tech, for a scrimmage at Dallas.

The Gaels had been scheduled to scrimmage the Tech team, but Coach Pete Cawthon had to call it off a day before the squad's arrival and the Gaels scrimmaged among themselves at the Lubbock field during their stopover. At that time neither Coach Cawthon nor Coach "Slip" Madigan of St. Mary's had any indication their teams would meet in a "Bowl" game.

MIAMI—Major Bob Neyland, coach of unbeaten Tennessee which faces unbeaten Oklahoma today at the Orange Bowl, said today that the gamblers were "good time Charles." Tennessee was rated a 14 to 5 shot favorite, but Neyland, who brought his team here yesterday, said "the game is an even money tosser at best."

NEW ORLEANS—The betting today was "six to five and take your pick" when unbeaten Texas Christian took on Carnegie Tech, "surprise team" of 1938. Ticket prices soared up to $30 in the scalping markets and a sell out crowd of 50,000 was assured. Neither of the teams will get here until shortly before the game. Carnegie Tech, training at nearby Bay St. Louis, Miss., will come in on the morning of the battle. Texas Christian leaves Fort Worth Friday.

DALLAS, Tex.—Texas Tech's Red Raiders had grown so fond of strict training today that they punished their student manager, Arrie (Tadpole) Cheek, for overeating.

Cheek returned from a Christmas visiting excursion and was made to weigh in. Squad members were alarmed to find him 11 pounds overweight.

Today he began his prescribed punishment of arising at 6:30 A. M., going to the kitchen of the apartment hotel where the Raiders headquarters, and watching the chefs prepare breakfast.

The joker was that Cheek's place was eliminated from the Tech breakfast table and his only morning punishment until he regained his trim figure would be the aroma of the kitchen.

'Bears Strong As Notre Dame' Says Alexander

BERKELEY (UP)—The "Ramblin' Wreckers" of Georgia Tech nursed their bruises today and headed for home after recording their fourth quarter disaster in their inter-sectional game with the University of California. The final score was 13-0.

After holding the Bears scoreless for three periods the Georgians fell victims to the smashing power of Vie Bottari, star left half back named on most All-America teams this year, and Louie Smith, his running mate.

Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech's coach, was generous in praise of the work of Bottari and Smith. With their "power and brute strength" he said California was as good as Notre Dame, better than Alabama and a standoff with Duke.

Playing his last game for California, Bottari opened up in the fourth quarter. In three line plays he took the ball from California's 40 to Tech's 28. Smith went 20 yards over tackle. In four straight punches, Bottari went over, leaping over a pile of players for the last two yards. His attempted drop kick for the extra point was blocked.

Smith scored the second touchdown a short while later at the end of a 66 yard march. He banged into the line from the eight yard stripe and fell into the end zone.

Suppose They All Start Giving Orders?

Eastern All-Stars won't lack leadership when they deploy against the pick of the west in the Shriners' annual football game for crippled children in San Francisco, January 2. No less than 10 captains are included in the squad. From left to right in the line: Don Wemple of Colgate, Francis Tvedell of Minnesota, Dick Wehler of Temple, Jim McDonald of Illinois, Walter Shinn of Pennsylvania, and Joe Mihal of Purdue. From left to right in the backfield: Bill Osmanski of Holy Cross, Bob MacLeod of Dartmouth, Howie Weiss of Wisconsin, and Marshall Goldberg of Pittsburgh.

Seabiscuit Ships Tonight For Santa Anita; Lameness Denied

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UP)—Seabiscuit, champion thoroughbred of 1938, will pass up two shots at $50,000 races in Florida, including another possible match race with War Admiral, to run in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap next March 4 in California.

Despite the fact that the Biscuit, rapidly nearing an all-time earning record, will be asked to carry an impost of 134 pounds at Santa Anita, Trainer Tom Smith said today he had received instructions to ship the horse to the Pacific coast.

Seabiscuit leaves at 9 p. m. and arrives in California Saturday morning.

Smith emphatically denied that Seabiscuit was lame but he added the horse has received "what looked like a small rap" on a forequarter ligament. He talked on the telephone with Owner Charles

S. Howard last night in San Francisco and indicated the reason for the decision was to have Seabiscuit at home in case trouble developed with the ligament.

The decision shattered hopes of Miami promoters that Howard's horse and War Admiral would meet again in the $50,000 added Widener Challenge Cup on March 4, or in a tentative match race or special invitational along with the four other leading horses of the year—Lawrin, Stagehand, Dauber and Pasteurized.

Trainer Smith said he did not want to "take a chance" of having to withdraw Seabiscuit from another special race with War Admiral at Miami.

The Biscuit developed ligament trouble earlier this year and had to be withdrawn from a $100,000 match race against War Admiral at Belmont park, N. Y. They finally met at Pimlico, Md., in October and Seabiscuit won.

Florida operators had offered Howard two chances at $50,000 races in the hopes he would accept instead of gambling on one big try at Santa Anita. Seabiscuit has won $340,480 and needs only $36,264 more to equal Sun Beau's record of $376,744.

Smith who denied Seabiscuit's training had been handicapped by the minor ailment, said he was not worried about the 134 pound impost. He said a lighter weight hardly could have been expected after Seabiscuit won the Hollywood Biscuits carrying 133 pounds.

In the 1937 Santa Anita race the Biscuit, carrying 114 pounds finished second to Rosemont, carrying 124. This year, Stagehand, carrying only 100 pounds, came home ahead of the Howard racer, which carried top weight of 130.

AFTER BIG GAME

BY GEORGE BRIGGS
(Santa Ana Hunter and Sportsman)

John and I sized up this goat and agreed he was a good specimen if we could only get him out. But between this goat and us lay a deep and almost inaccessible canyon along the bottom of which lay a rotten glacier from under which, quite a distance below, roared a stream from the melting ice or snow.

John wanted me to take the shot, saying I had been shooting so well I might hit him. But I argued to kill a goat you must hit him right and I didn't feel I could place my shot at the distance, and upon insistence I finally agreed to try for this Billy. So, seating myself with the gun sling over my arm, and a perfect rest, I placed the head just at the line of his back, took all the time I wanted and squeezed the trigger. I guessed the distance at something over 400 yards. At the shot, the goat deliberately turned around, as if he hadn't even heard the shot, walked a few steps behind a boulder and was lost to sight. This shot disturbed another Billy off to our left, here, before unseen. He got to his feet, and in his lazy way, looked in our direction. Figuring I had missed the second goat I said to John I could kill the third goat I felt sure. Getting myself into an easy position for the shot I took it and I know I hit.

John now started for the last Billy and I watched him make the treacherous descent and start up the steep climb for the last goat. This would bring him near the spot where we had seen the second Billy. To my surprise he appeared in the little niche and began trying to make me understand something. I could see him plainly and hear his voice but I couldn't understand. Then he went back and dragged the goat into view. The second goat had been killed by that one long shot and this allows me to say it was one of the best shots I ever made and certainly the longest of those notoriously hard-to-get range at which I ever killed one goats.

It would be impossible to get a horse into that part of the mountain so John remained to skin out the trophy, while I was doing a like service for the first goat. After a while I saw him working his way up that steep, rough country with what I knew to be the pelt and head. He never got to the third goat as it had begun to get a little late and we must think about camp which, while not a long distance away, would take a long time to reach for we couldn't go right down the mountain to camp.

Alex Hears Shots At the tent, Alex had heard our shots at the sheep and also at the first goat and was watching us through binoculars. When we killed the first goat, John waved for him to come up and soon we knew he understood and would be on his way. Alex is what we call a "brush Indian" in that he lives, with his family, in the woods all year round and seldom comes even into Telegraph except for a little tea or sugar, so always he is in perfect physical condition and without question is the greatest foot-traveler I ever have seen. Wearing moccasins, he began to work his way up that seemingly impossible and steep mountain.

John's signal had been given to Alex before he started for the second goat and while I was working on the first one, I occasionally would look down and try to locate Alex. After a while, far down the mountain, I saw him coming, not hurriedly but covering a lot of space, and I wasn't through with my goat when he stood beside me and wanted to lend a hand. About this time John was seen coming with his load and soon he was with us. I marvel at the endurance of these people, but I shouldn't when I take into consideration the wonderful distances they cover afoot during the year, following their dog teams in winter, running their trap lines and that walking is their mode of travel.

New Route to Camp With John back, we discussed the situation for we had to start for camp if we wanted to get off the mountain before nightfall. We couldn't well go back the way we had come for that would take us too long and, if night caught us, it might be dangerous. Alex thought we could work our way diagonally down the mountain, coming out on a rough wash, and that we could find some way out of that. So he went for the horses and in a surprisingly short time was back with them. Of course, we had left the sheep where we had dressed them out and now we left the goat trophies to return for them all tomorrow.

Alex led the way down the mountain, trying to pick out fair going. John led his horse and I started out to do the same but soon

LIGAROTI AND SPECIFY MEET AGAIN MONDAY

BY TOM GWYNNE (Register Track Correspondent) Fourteen crack thoroughbreds, embracing numerous hopes for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, today were nominated for the mile-and-a-sixteenth New Year Stakes Monday. The engagement easily overshadows the opening day headliner Saturday, the California Breeders' Champion Stakes, a home-bred affair for 3-year-olds.

Ligaroti, the Argentine avalanche, is expected to rule top weight in the New Year Stakes, and he will get a return shot at Specify, who nosed him out in a thriller at Tanforan in the recent San Francisco Handicap.

Other nominations include Heelfly, Indian Broom, Bourbon King, Gosum, Main Man, Quick Devil, Galsun, Piccolo, Pageboy, Marrymood, Sweepalot and Advocator.

Ligaroti Bold Threat

Ligaroti, Specify and Heelfly may monopolize the lion's share of interest in this $10,000 battle. Ligaroti is without question one of the boldest threats in the Santa Anita Handicap. Specify is a blazing star at a mile-and-a-sixteenth. Heelfly, a sensation when he head-heated Seabiscuit in the Laurel Stakes, hits the comeback trail, making his first start since October of 1937.

Easily the best of the Argentine horses seen to date, Ligaroti has flashed the Binglein stable silks in some brilliant efforts. His race to Seabiscuit in the Del Mar special, despite rodeo riding, rocketed him to National fame. There is little doubt that he would have beaten Specify at Tanforan had he not "lugged" in during the last sixteenth. Jockey Noel Richardson was so busy trying to keep him from piling into Specify that he couldn't do him justice. "If we'd been on the rail, there wouldn't have been anything to it," he said after the race.

Specify Training Well

Specify, idle for five months before he tangled with Ligaroti, ran a remarkable race, showing the amazing early speed which characterized his Hollywood park form last summer. "He came out of the race nicely," Bert Baroni, his owner, said. And he's been training well since returning to Santa Anita.

Heelfly, fired shortly after Alfred Vanderbilt bought him from T. P. Morgan, has been training well and going sound. Loaded with class, he may be hard to handle this winter with a race or two under his belt.

Here they are, the top crust of equine society at Santa Anita, the Grade "A" handicap horses: Seabiscuit, Jacola, Cravat, Pasteurized, Stagehand, The Chief, Dauber, Ligaroti, Espos, Main Man, Heelfly, Marica and Thangsgiving.

That is the tentative list made

The PAYOFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON (NEA Service Sports Editor)

Leland Stanford MacPhail's prediction regarding night baseball in the majors has come true. When Larry MacPhail pioneered the nocturnal business in Cincinnati, he said that it wouldn't be long before both big leagues would be in line.

And when MacPhail installed the bulbs in Brooklyn last summer, he reiterated that even Col. Jacob Ruppert would get around to putting lights in Yankee Stadium.

So far, the only American League clubs that will indulge in the privilege of night games at home are Philadelphia and Cleveland. But the die-hards are weakening.

In time the Yankees and Giants may play night ball in New York. It is probable that the Yanks will play in artificial light on the road next summer. They already indicate that they will appear in one game under the arcs of Cleveland's huge Municipal Stadium.

LIGHTING SYSTEMS IMPROVE EACH YEAR

So certain is MacPhail that Colonel Ruppert eventually will install lights that he already expresses fear that the Yankee lighting system will make the Ebbets Field bulbs look like candles. "Brooklyn has the best lighting system that can possibly be provided now," he explains, "but electricians are making improvements every year."

The innards were identical, so the compromise ball will have the American league's thin cover with five-strand stitches. It will be lively, but pitchers will have the added advantage of heavier stitching to better their grip.

Chances are that the American league will join the National in preventing outfielders from catching a fly ball and trapping it for the purpose of making a double play.

RULE SIMPLY MAKES OLD PRACTICE LEGAL

Clark Griffith pitched practically a nine-inning game at the major league meetings showing the boys how his new pitching rule works.

It allows the hurler to keep on foot off the rubber instead of touching it with both. The hurler must brace the off-the-rubber foot before he begins to wind-up, and there can be no backward step.

The idea is that most pitchers did not have both feet on the rubber in exact accordance with the rules, and that it was better to give them leeway, define the stance, and make it legal.

Those who have watched him daily insist Zeke Munra should have two RBI columns in his statistics, the other for runs booted in.

Larry MacPhail explains that Brooklyn took Joe Stripp from the Boston team for Fred Frankhouse because it will take $60 to ship the pitcher from Pennsylvania and only $6 to bring the third baseman from Orlando baseball school to Clearwater.

WADE DEMANDS PEACE. QUIET FOR HIS TEAM

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent) PASADENA — Duke's mixture ends today.

Come sundown, and the Blue Devils of Durham will have made their final appearance before the public until they run out on the Rose Bowl turf on January 2. Because tomorrow the Ducks begin the secret practices that Coach Wallace Wade has ordered, and they will be as private as the thoughts of a clam, or a hermit's sunbath.

No pictures. No poses. No reporters. No notebooks. Burly guards have been assigned to all gates and given orders to bounce anyone with even an ounce of peeping Tom or eaves-dropper blood in his veins. Before the workouts begin Wade personally will beat the bushes and trees that shut Brookside park from the outside world, and his assistants will strafe any airplanes, balloons, or gliders that swoop too low.

Wants Quiet for Team

Wade wants peace for his team, and is going to get it any cost. "I have been to the Rose Bowl four times," he told me, "and I know that only a 'No' man can hope to put a winning team on the field. By a 'No' man I mean one with enough will power to refuse the thousand and one invitations that a visiting team receives in California. They'll kill you with kindness out here if you aren't careful. The only way to protect yourself is to quit mixing, quit seeing people, and get off secret work."

Wade made it clear to me that he didn't expect to teach his team any new and startling plays while they worked in their secluded rendezvous. There will be no magical formations perfected, no new systems of attack or defense devised.

"We'll play the same game in the Rose Bowl that we have played all year," he said. "I have been coaching long enough to know that you can't take a team and make it over in two or three weeks. Our secret workouts will be along the same lines of the practices we had in Durham. But we like peace and quiet. You wouldn't like someone looking over your shoulder while you wrote a story, would you? No, and an automobile salesman wouldn't care about having fifty or sixty persons gathered around him while he tried to sell a car to a customer."

John Knows What to Expect "I wouldn't mind a small and orderly group watching our practice. I wouldn't even mind Howard Jones watching it, because he would stand on the sidelines, out of our way. As for him learning about our plays—well, I guess he already knows pretty much what to expect."

Wade wasn't happy about his team's condition when I talked with him last night. The practice of the yesterday found them slow and uneven, he said, and the score from Berkeley, where California licked Georgia Tech by a pair of touchdowns, had showed them exactly what they were up against in the Trojans of Southern Cal.

"We were luck to beat Tech 6 to 0," Wade said, "and here a team-

Work Augmented At Prado Dam

STAKES SET FOR HUGE SPILLWAY

Interest Grows In New Play Of Community Actors

Activity around the huge Prado dam project is constantly increasing. It was augmented by the arrival this week of five new heavy duty tractors which will be used to pull large carriages used in excavation. The tractors were checked through the warehouse today and will go into action for the removal of thousands of yards of earth and rock.

United States army engineers have set construction stakes for the spillway, keywalls and other parts of the dam.

Protection Levee Built
During the past two weeks, a protection levee has been built parallel to the river at the dam site. After the face of the levee is completed with rock, the river will be diverted from its present course to permit work to proceed on the dam.

During the recent rains, a careful check of the flow of water was made by the engineering crews who have available many figures on the conduct of the river in past years.

Large Steel Gates
Excavation for outlets will be started when the river is diverted. These diversion flumes will be beneath the huge earth-filled dam, mostly through sandstone. Inside will be the large steel gates to be operated from the control building on the top of the dam and regulate the flow of water from the reservoir.

As the machinery is being assembled for actual work on the dam, the Prado contractors are doing an immense amount of preliminary work is still being carried on by the engineering corps, who made the surveys and specifications of the project.

Horton To Talk To Townsendites

An address designed to interest business men of the community will be given by Col. Ralph D. Horton of Los Angeles, at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at Townsend hall, 509 West Fourth street, under the sponsorship of the Townsend organizations of the city. Col. Horton will discuss the principles of the Townsend plan as they relate to the general business situation.

Madam Mamie Stark, well known baritone, will entertain with a group of selections.

Tustin Townsend Party Planned

A post-Christmas party will be given at the Tustin Townsend club at 7:30 p. m. today at the Tustin headquarters. It was announced by Dr. D. L. Thomas, president. An exchange of inexpensive gifts will be the feature of the evening.

HOLD FAMILY PARTY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 27.—Arthur W. Frost, district manager of the Southern California Edison company, and Mrs. Frost were hosts at a family Christmas dinner and party at their home on Crest avenue Sunday. W. L. Frost, who retired recently as vice-president of the Edison company, and Mrs. Frost, just returned from a six months' European tour, were present.

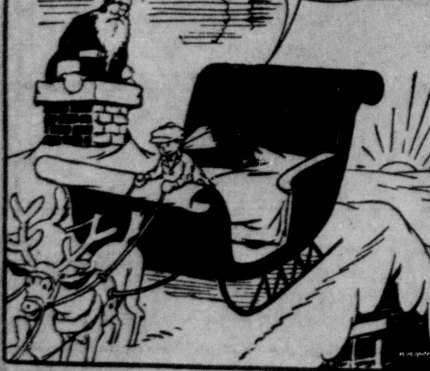

Others present were Mrs. C. F. Frost, mother of the host; Earl Frost, another of the Frost brothers, and Mrs. Frost from Alhambra; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Walker, and Miss Elsie Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mills and son, Ralph, of Pasadena; Mrs. Emma Hager, sister of the hostess, Mrs. Anne Feldman and sons, Stanley and Kenneth, of Pasadena; Mrs. Hilda Williams, of Altadena, and Mrs. Ann Wolford, of San Gabriel.

TIPPY TACKER'S CHRISTMAS ADVENTURE

WHEW! THE LAST HOUSE! DELIVERIES ALL FINISHED. TIPPY, AND JUST IN TIME!

BOY, WHAT A NIGHT THIS HAS BEEN! SANTA CAME AND I GOT A MINUTE, DUNDER! WHOA, BLITZEN!

WILDEST AFRICA IS FILM'S BACKGROUND

Athrob with the trance-like frenzy that permeates the life, loves, dangers and secret rituals of the Belgian Congo, "Dark Rap-ture," which opens tomorrow at the West Coast theater, brings to the screen a myriad of dramatic sights and sounds from the hitherto unpenetrated jungle.

The picture was made by Armand Denis, who produced "Goonie Goonie" and directed "Wild Cargo," and his wife, Lelia Roosevelt, who is a cousin of Theodore Roosevelt. The famous Denis-Roosevelt expedition, which made a 42,000-mile overland trek from Belgium to the most secret and unexplored regions of the African jungle, constituted one of the most daring and amazing adventures in modern times.

Among the comments of sheer excitement in the film are the bare-handed capture and "bronco-busting" of infuriated African wild elephants; mysterious manhood rites performed on forest tribe boys; walking in lava that bursts into fire at the slightest touch; giant dancers—everyone over seven feet tall—in sweeping, unfurling formations of tribal orgy; pygmies building a bridge across a stream without going near the water; long-headed people whose heads are bound from birth; men subjecting themselves to flogging to win female recognition; the man who danced himself into a frenzied ecstasy to win the approval of his 440 wives, and many other fascinating sequences.

Moviemakers who have come to expect the utmost in thrills, mystery and excitement from "Bull-dog Drummond" pictures, will not be disappointed in the latest of the group, "Arrest Bulldog Drummond," which will be the second feature, John Howard and Heather Angel head the cast.

Rotarians Hold Annual Program

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 27.—Members of the Rotary club enjoyed their annual Christmas party and luncheon at the Huntington hotel this year. A. W. Frost, H. M. Hepburn, Margaret Colvin and Al Greer formed the committee on arrangements.

Miss Patsy Colvin sang as she carried a yellow basket filled with Christmas gifts and distributed them to the merry members. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Colvin.

Councilman T. B. Talbert carved a roast pig which was a present to the organization from the Huntington Beach company. The tables were colorful with decorations and illumination. Silver bells wrapped in cellophane formed placecards for all.

ISSUES STATEMENT ON SRA SITUATION

Following the report that Lawrence Platt, 40, well known Orange county welfare worker, will be the next head of the Orange county office of the State Relief Administration, Dewey Anderson, recently named by Governor-Elect Culbert Olson to the position of administrator of the State Relief Administration, beginning January 3, today issued a special statement.

"Any public announcement or rumor regarding the appointment of any SRA officials, local or otherwise, is not only unauthorized but unfounded," he said. "At this time, my primary concern is to formulate major outlines of policy which will affect the whole relief and unemployment problem. When that is done, I intend to visit systematically, every county office and interview local personnel.

"This will enable me to get acquainted with local staffs and to acquaint them with my policies. It will be then that I begin consideration of any complaints on inefficiencies or mal-administration. "I sincerely hope that this statement will stop all rumors that I am planning a political purge of the State Relief Administration."

RECITAL IS HELD

MIDWAY CITY, Dec. 27.—A musical recital was held recently at the home of Mrs. R. C. Miller for local pupils of Miss Dorothy Pratt, Anaheim teacher of the piano. Refreshments of ice cream, cookies and candies were served following the recital hour.

The invited pupils and guests included Peggy and Dorothy Miller, Mrs. S. A. Miller, Billie and Jean Johnson, Mrs. Russell I. Johnson, Ruth and Patti Pearl Mearls, Mrs. R. P. Mearls, Barbara Foshbury, Mrs. W. J. Fosbury, Rae Hessler, Mrs. Hessler, Joyce Ferguson, Mrs. Fern Ferguson, John Adams, Mrs. Clive Adams, Bob and Bill Miller, and their mother, the hostess, Mrs. Miller, and Miss Pratt.

OVER THE TRANSOM

"The Lottie Carson," masted schooner with a history of pirate adventure, and as a motion picture set, now, anchored in Newport bay presents a striking holiday decoration in the simplicity of the lighted cross which tops her cross arms.

Eye catching are the well padded scare-crow Santa Claus figures which predominate in the decorations of the Corona del Mar business district. Life-sized in many instances the figures hold symbols of the business concerns which they decorate; an oversized hamburger for an eating house, flowers for the florist shop and similar examples. Santas are also atop many neighboring homes, and other decorations of the holiday season add to the effect. Mrs. L. H. Norman and Mrs. J. J. Mustard headed the committee of citizens responsible for the novel decorations.

What might have been the "Star of Bethlehem," with a Christmas arrangement of snow and icicles centers the large front window of "The Mayflower," home of Mrs. John Legg at 910 Park avenue, Balboa Island. The display won the honorable mention award for the best illuminated home and surroundings conducted in a harbor area Christmas decoration contest. First award went to the B. I. Moore home at 1221 West Central avenue where lighted out-door Christmas trees framed a large front window frosted in snow effect, a cellophane effect cover for the indoor tree, a large green fir decorated in multi-colored Christmas globes and lights.

H. B. Woman Escapes Death In Bathroom Explosion

Jimmie Fidler
in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27.—Article Number One in Hollywood's credo has always been the contention that screen success depends primarily upon one's social contacts—that "front" is a business necessity and influential friends are the best possible career insurance. The philosophy has been costly—many grease-painted zannies spending a neat ninety per cent of their incomes on social swank. And I wonder if they don't feel a bit disillusioned when they consider the case of Ronald Colman. He has been a top-flight star nearly 15 years and he has yet to pay his first penny in tribute to "contacts." He has never given a party for the press, never cultivated influential friends. During production, he never patronized the Filmville nite-spots and never fraternizes with the rest of the troupe; between pictures he sees no one but his few tried and proven cronies. He has always lived in inexpensive houses and driven sensible cars. And for every social invitation accepted, he has turned down nine. When married, a few months ago, Hollywood expected him to plunge into the Movietown swim. Instead he is building a home for his bride near Santa Barbara—more than 100 miles away.

It strikes me as more than possible that Ronald Colman is right and the rest of Hollywood wrong. At least, when he retires—if ever he does—he's going to have a pretty sizable bank account to testify for him. Wouldn't it be amazing if, after all these years, screen actors suddenly awoke to the fact that ability and common-sense, instead of friends, are prime factors in screen success?

ODD-FORMATION: More than three times as many actors were born under the sign of Leo than in any other zodiacal period. Errol Flynn has never written a letter to Lili Damita—he always wires, cables or phones. The pay checks handed out on the average "Class A" pictures are divided between more than 1000 people. "Little Bobbie Coogan, now 14, stands five feet, nine inches tall, and weighs 175 pounds. It requires 30 per cent more light to photograph a blonde correctly than is needed for a brunette.

In every Gene Autry picture, his famous horse, "Champion," must be given at least one individual close-up—it's a contract stipulation. Joel McCrea and Frances Dee, now rated Hollywood's happiest couple, met on a blind date. I don't know its significance, but Barbara Stanwyck always wears a plain gold cross on a chain around her neck—regardless of the role or costume, she refuses to remove it. Publicity aside, Alan Hale's numerous patents bring him a bigger revenue than he earns from acting. The squeaky sound of footsteps on snow is made by treading on a bag filled with a mixture of alum and salt.

Almost all the night effects you see on the screen are filmed in daylight—the scenes are shot through a color filter and the actors wear special make-up. Gilbert Roland's father was a noted Mexican bull fighter. Real names: Sheila D'Arcy was born Rebecca Wasserman. Dix to buy twin ponies—a biological rarity—for his twin sons. Paul Muni—now Hollywood's "Great Actor"—left after making one picture, disgusted and vowing never to return.

Myrna Loy rates high on the list of boxoffice stars and since she is one of my own favorites, I certainly can't object to that. But here's something odd: Last night, discussing the importance of team casting, one of our party challenged the rest of us to name, off-hand, a single picture in which she has appeared in the last three years—WITHOUT William Powell or Clark Gable. And not one of us could do it. Try it on your friends and see if they can.

There are many persistent people in Hollywood, but I know of none to top Henry Victor, a noted English actor. Victor came here some six years ago on a temporary permit and made such an impression by his work in three or four pictures that two studios offered him starring contracts. He

VICTIM, 69, IS BROUGHT TO S.A.

An explosion of gas which wrecked the rear of the Joe Beeman home in Huntington Beach at 9 p. m. Sunday nearly brought tragic death to Mrs. Susie Noe, 69, who had come to join relatives for a happy Christmas Day.

Mrs. Noe suffered first and second degree burns of her face, arms and hands. Today her eyes are swollen shut and her face is covered with bandages. As soon as she heard the roar she shut her eyes and saved her sight. A heavy woolen sweater saved her body from being burned.

Iron Closet Falls
Mrs. Noe had stepped into the bathroom and struck a match, and gas that had accumulated from leaky pipes under the house burst into flames, officials said. The side of the room was hurtled into the yard. A heavy iron closet in the room fell with a crash narrowly missing the elderly woman by a few inches. Dishes and lamps in other parts of the home were broken by the blast.

The Huntington Beach fire department rushed to the scene at Garfield and Smelter avenues, a few blocks out of the northeast city limits, extinguished the fire, and kept the blaze from spreading to nearby oil wells on the Rex Oil company's lease.

Brought to Santa Ana
Mrs. Noe, who resides in Sacramento, was spending a vacation in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joe Beeman. She was treated by Dr. B. W. Hardy at his hospital and then accompanied her to the home of a granddaughter, Miss Dawn Hunting of 1412 West Sixth street, Santa Ana.

Christmas Gun Brings Reprimand

Boys will be boys and the one interviewed by Detective Lieutenant Charles W. Wolford early Christmas morning was called to investigate a complaint that someone was shooting a .22 caliber rifle inside of the city limits in violation of a city ordinance. He found a youth target shooting. "He got the gun for Christmas and was just trying it out," the officer reported. "He promised that, in the future, he would do his shooting outside of the city."

He tried to get his permit renewed—but the bank holiday was on and every one in Washington was too busy to listen to his pleas. He was forced to return to England—where he has waited ever since for a quota number. He came back the other day, determined to stay. But the added years have made it necessary for him to start his career anew, not as a lead, but as a character man.

Carlos Barbe, vice-consul of Uruguay and a red-hot movie fan, telephoned the front office of Twentieth Century-Fox the other day to say that an important Uruguayan was in town and wanted to visit the studio. "I think it will be permissible," said the producer secretary. "Shall I call you to the consulate to let you know?" "No," said Barbe. "Just call me on stage four, here at your studio. I'm working as an extra in one of your pictures."

CALIFORNIA BOOSTER, 11, HAS "SWELL TIME" ON NOVEL OUTING

Walter Epton, 11-year-old Garden Grove boy, is a California booster. He likes the climate, valleys, mountains, orange groves, ocean.

Everything about California. So yesterday, after Santa Claus visited him and he and his family went to Irvine park for an outing, he decided to explore the area—barefooted, coatless and hatless.

Thanks for the "Tour!"
Wayne Grunder, 1735 West Canton street, Long Beach, saw Walter strolling along the highway not far from the park and offered him a ride home. Walter was appreciative and Grunder took him to El Toro and way-points, much to Walter's delight. Arriving at El Toro, Grunder was surprised to learn Walter didn't live there. Grunder didn't know what to do until he espied Officers Lloyd Groover and Ben Craig of the California highway patrol.

He Has "Swell Time"
"I don't know what to do with Walter," Grunder told the officers. "We've been driving around but I can't find Walter's folks."

The officers immediately contacted headquarters and sent out a police radio broadcast. It brought almost immediate results for Walter's folks were worried and had contacted police. "I had a swell time seeing a lot of different things," said Walter as he waited at the highway patrol office for his parents to come for him and take him home.

H. B. Driver To Answer Charges

Arrested on Washington street just east of Baker late Saturday night, Roger Berdelman, 30, of Huntington Beach, was charged with drunk driving by Officers Chet Gross and William Neilsen. He was pronounced "very drunk" by an examining doctor. He was released on $200 bail and must appear today for hearing.

CONVICT TAKEN IN LONG HUNT

Arrested on a Santa Ana warrant November 9 after a battle with Los Angeles police, Jesse Cobb, 30, ex-convict of Los Angeles, was returned to Orange county yesterday afternoon to face two counts of issuing fictitious checks here two years ago.

Records show Cobb served three years in San Quentin, three years in the Arizona state prison at Florence and 50 days in Los Angeles county jail.

Attacks Officers
Police Chief Floyd W. Howard, Detective Lieutenant Charles W. Wolford and Officer Daniel M. Jones brought Cobb from the Los Angeles county jail to the Orange county jail.

According to assertions of police, Cobb assisted by his wife, sought to escape arrest in Los Angeles and attacked Los Angeles officers, attempting to wrest a gun from one of them. Convicted of disturbing the peace as a result of the alleged escape-attempt, Cobb was given a 50-day term.

Cobb, with Louis Maynard and Maynard's wife, Mildred, assertedly passed fictitious checks for $24 each here at two Grand Central market places, the C. M. Marks pawnshop; Alpha Beta market at Fourth and Birch; Safeway market, Fourth and Ross; Empire market, Second and Broadway and Bradley's market, Washington and Main.

Records show Cobb was wanted in Arizona for escape. "Hold" orders have been placed on him by San Bernardino, Riverside, Ventura and Fresno police and police in Flagstaff and Holbrook, Ariz. Cobb assertedly admitted he has been in hiding for two years.

Burglars Again Raid Warehouse

For the fifth time in the past seven weeks, the Golden Glow Beverage company warehouse, 1800 West Fourth street, was burglarized last week, according to reports to police. As in past burglaries, boards were torn from a back window to gain entrance and steal liquors.

Officers C. V. Adams and L. C. Rogers made preliminary investigation early today but were unable to determine amount of the loot. An attempt to burglarize the 17th street market, 105 East 17th street, also was under investigation today. A rock had been driven beneath a sliding door but the would-be burglars failed to enter.

"Boo," Says Boy With New Flash; Police Called

Belief that a burglar might be taking advantage of the Christmas week-end excitement to do a "job" sent local officers on a hurry call last night. E. P. Perry, 321 West 19th, saw lights flashing on and off in the house at 325 West 19th, called police. Officers A. F. Moulton and Cornish Roehm found that a very young man had received flashlight from Santa Claus and was giving it a workout.

U. S. NAVY STUDIES "FLYING CARPET"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(UP)—Naval officials studied today an inventor's latest war weapon—a "flying carpet."

Among blue prints of super-battleships, long range bombing planes and the like they found plans and claims by A. S. Shafer, Philadelphia inventor, reading like a page from the Arabian Nights.

Shafer, a member of the Chartered Institute of American Inventors, described his invention as a "flying mat or carpet of destructive elements woven together and controlled by radio."

"Wipe Out Hitler"
"My invention could be flown by remote control across the Atlantic and dropped over Berlin or Munich. It would wipe out Hitler and his hoodlums in a split jiffy," Shafer said.

The "carpet" would be made of destructive elements which, when dropped, would destroy everything within an area 1000 times its size, Shafer claimed. He said he had actually flown a miniature model and had proven all his claims. The navy would not consider his invention, although he had offered free demonstrations.

PASTOR PLEADS HE IS INSANE

An insanity defense was presented by the Rev. Harney M. McGhee, of Anaheim, when he was arraigned late Friday before Superior Judge James L. Allen on morals charges involving two Anaheim boys. He pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, and Judge Allen set his trial for January 17, assigning the case to Judge G. K. Scovel's court.

The court appointed Dr. Franklin Van Meter, Norwalk psychiatrist, and Dr. Milo Tedstrom, of Santa Ana, to examine the defendant and report his mental condition to the court.

Others Enter Pleas
Fred Rodenbaugh also pleaded not guilty to charges of burglary and robbery of K. S. Michael of San Clemente. His trial was set for January 5 in department two of the court.

Judge Allen denied Lloyd Ireland's plea for probation in connection with a charge of passing a fraudulent check. Ireland was sentenced to one year in county jail.

A. B. Helmer, also accused of passing a fraudulent check, was placed on probation for two years on condition that he make restitution. Fred A. Leach was made his sponsor.

A. Castro was denied probation and sentenced to six months in county jail for assaulting C. Perez with a knife.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Four Generations Are Participants in Gala Reunion

Six sons and daughters, nine grandchildren and six great grandchildren of Mrs. Laura Palmer Gulick were among those taking part in a gala reunion Sunday in her home, 1702 Spurgeon street. Mrs. Gulick, one of the community's beloved nonagenarians, moved to her present residence in 1912. Prior to that, she and her husband, the late James Harvey Gulick, lived on a ranch in Olive, having come to California from Kansas in 1887. Two big turkeys were included in the dinner fare served early Sunday afternoon. Gifts were distributed to everyone. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Gulick and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gulick, Tulsa; Mr. and Mrs. Lou Wimmer and children, Carl Hawkins, Shirley, Juanita and Donna Leigh Heaton of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wagner, Long Beach; Dr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lampman and children and Miss Mary Barrett, all of Huntington Park. Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hewitt of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hilligass, San Pedro; Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Gulick and daughters, Eleanor and Dorothy Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Huntley of Tulsa; Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Huntley and son, Michael, Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gulick and children, Herbert and Viola of Pomona. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. John L. Trickey of Irvine; Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Scovill, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Martin, Long Beach; Mrs. Ada Dawsey, Huntington Beach; Mildred Moore, Hollywood; and Mrs. Bertie Launsbach, Santa Ana.

Beaueants Discuss Plans For January Installation

Holding their Christmas party and making plans for installation of officers, members of Santa Ana Social Order of the Beauceants met the past week in Masonic temple. Installation will take place January 4 at 1 p. m. in the temple, following officers' practice at 10 o'clock. On the installing staff will be Mrs. J. Joseph Smith, past supreme worthy president of Pasadena Beauceant and Mrs. Elton Roehm, Marshals will be Mrs. V. Watson and Mrs. J. W. Hancock, with Mrs. B. Utley as chaplain. Mrs. Wiley made appointments of Mesdames J. L. Kneisel, chaplain; C. Neuschwaner, marshal; B. Dawson, assistant marshal; W. E. Patterson, color bearer; Elton Roehm, standard bearer; J. H. Tompkins, mistress of the wardrobe; Henry Diers, daughter of household; W. S. Suddaby, inner guard; J. C. Bishop, outer guard; W. H. Thomas, director of music. Mrs. John Shaw conducted the business meeting, which was preceded by covered-dish luncheon. Guests were Henry Meyer, W. M. Clayton, John Shaw, Mrs. Osborn, a member of Boone, Ia. assembly, and Miss Leonora Tompkins. Gifts were exchanged.

Delta Theta Chi Are Guests At Pretty Yuletide Event

Mrs. Harvey Doesken (Mary Bowyer) received her Delta Theta Chi sorority sisters for a Christmas party in her home, 1302 North Broadway. Of special interest was an old-fashioned Christmas tree with ropes of popcorn, cranberries and paper chains gleaming in the light of candles. Each guest was presented with a gift from her secret sister. The president, Miss Alice Whitten received a gold gavel guard for her sorority pin, the chapter's traditional gift to its leader. Holiday customs and stories were exchanged during the evening. Gold tapers matched the glassware and china used during the refreshment interval. Cossage bouquets of glided pine cones, juniper and garb beads were favors. Present were Mesdames Harvey Doesken, T. E. McLeod, Emmett Clifford, Martin Goldsmith and the Misses Ann Dettweiler, Bette Vorces, Frances Hill, Eleanor McFarren, Adeline Loptien, Alice Whitten, Irene Ross, Leone Baxter and Daisy Carr.

Buffet Supper Honors Visitor From Illinois

Another affair planned for the enjoyment of Mrs. Andrew Smith of Decatur, Ill., during her stay in the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Braden, 2601 North Ross street, was a recent supper party. Former Decatur residents shared the hospitality of the Bradens. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mont Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Jones of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Jess Gillespie and daughter Mary Alice of Pasadena; and Mr. and Mrs. William Michl of Huntington Park. White elephant gifts were exchanged around a Christmas tree following supper. The Bradens and Mrs. Smith were in Palm Springs Thursday. They spent Christmas in Hollywood with Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. H. N. Johnson.

Cheerful Spirit Of Holidays Prevails In Countless Homes

Memories of two days of holiday rejoicing will irradiate all of holiday week for innumerable families and close friends brought into such pleasant companionship as an expression of "Merry Christmas." In many homes, Christmas Day itself was chosen for the holiday feasting and rejoicing. Christmas Eve too had its gay observance, while the festivities reached their climax with yesterday's celebration for many family groups.

Open House Affair
Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Liebig extended an annual hospitality Saturday night when they were hosts at a Christmas Eve party in their home, 820 Spurgeon street. More than 100 guests took part in festivities. Friends called between 8 and 11 o'clock. Santa Claus with his sleigh and reindeer formed a centerpiece on the attractively-arranged dining room table from which refreshments were served.

In Coffing Home
Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Coffing and their daughter and son, Janet and Lawrence Jr., received a half a hundred guests Sunday night from 6 to 9 o'clock in their home, 2437 North Park Boulevard.

The hosts made this a party for family groups, entertaining a number of couples and their children. A pretty Christmas tree and other holiday appointments added to the charm of the informal affair.

Eggnog Party
The Roscoe Hewitts were hosts at an eggnog party and open house affair Monday afternoon and evening in their home, 2414 Bonnie Brae. More than 50 guests were welcomed.

Aiding in extending hospitality of the home were the Hewitts' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hilligass of San Pedro who spent the past few days in this city.

Conor Visitors
Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Teal of Buffalo, N. Y., and their daughter, Miss Barbara Teal, a senior at Ann Arbor, Mich., who arrived Christmas eve for a Southland visit, were honor guests at a family dinner party given yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spicer. Mrs. Spicer and Mrs. Teal are sisters. H. Harries and daughter, Emma Lou, and points assembled for turkey dinner at Danigers. The group repaired to the Spicer home, 1923 Greenleaf street for the remainder of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Teal and their daughter are remaining here for a holiday visit.

Present with the honored group were Mr. and Mrs. Spicer and their daughters and son, Harriet, Caroline and Walter; with out-of-town guests including Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Harries and daughter, Emma Lou; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Drummond, Idylwild; Mrs. Leona Nowell and children, Virginia, Billie and Edward, Alhambra; Mrs. Lydia Gooch and daughter, Maxine, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Ford and son Eldon Jr., Santa Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gooch and children, Tommie and Jerry, Rivera; Mr. and Mrs. James T. Gooch and children, Virginia and Winton, Temecula; Paul Conrad and daughter, Ruth, of Wilmington.

Postmaster and Mrs. Frank Harwood and their sons, Billie and Dean, entertained at a family dinner Sunday noon in their home, 2340 Oakmont avenue. Guests were Mrs. Mae E. Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schwarm, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwarm, Miss Hazel Schwarm, this city; Mrs. C. E. Olson and daughter Dorothy of Long Beach.

With the Vances
Sunday afternoon found Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Vance entertaining a family group in their Tustin home, where dinner was served at 2 o'clock. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, Mrs. Jennie Vance, Mr. and Mrs. William Otis, Mr. and Mrs. Warren P. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Revell and daughter Eloise, all of Tustin and Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Otis Jr. and son Gordon, and Billie Otis of Garden Grove; Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Bixler, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Otis, Mrs. Thomas Scott and son Eddie, Los Angeles.

Guests From Merced
Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Welch and Mrs. Clifford of Merced are house guests of Mr. Welch's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wagner, 2402 Bonnie Brae. Joining the group for Christmas dinner Sunday in the Wagner home were Elmer Meyer of this city and Beulah Wagner of Los Angeles, student at Santa Barbara State college.

Several relatives and friends called at the Wagner home on Christmas Eve, when open house was observed.

At the Wellingtons
Col. and Mrs. M. B. Wellington were dinner hosts Christmas Eve in their home on Lemon Heights. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Johnson of this city and Mrs. T. E. Johnson and children, Deborah and Edwards of Claremont.

Happy Reunion
Mr. and Mrs. Dudley J. Morrison and daughter Caroline, 2021 North Ross street, were dinner hosts Sunday afternoon in their home. Guests were Mrs. Morrison's mother and sister, Mrs. Caroline Peterson and Miss Ella Peterson of Redlands, with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Bower of Pierson, Ia., who are spending the winter in the Southland.

Gift Exchange
Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Oliphant and their daughters and son, Miss Patsy, Miss Hazel and Donald Oliphant were joined by other relatives Christmas eve for exchange of gifts in the family home, 117 South Birch street. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. L. Rotella of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Keeler of Long Beach;

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Oliphant, Balboa Island; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hill, Wendell King, Charles Kiser, Miss Lucille Lambert and Miss Toni Knott, all of this vicinity; with Kenneth Oliphant, son of the home who has been at Palm Springs for the past few weeks.

Family Reunion
Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Leonard entertained at a family reunion Christmas day in their home, 1103 Memory Lane. Turkey dinner, a Christmas tree and gift exchange were enjoyed. Invited were Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Leonard and son Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Trumpy and daughter Deanna; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Elliott and children, Barbara, Betty and Richard, of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerner Peterson of Los Angeles.

Christmas Eve Charm
All the friendliness of the season was exemplified on Christmas Eve in the E. J. Hanna home, 245 North Park boulevard, where an informal open house was maintained throughout the evening hours. That combination of blue and silver which lends mystic charm to the seasonal decorations, was seen in all appointments of the home where more than half a hundred guests kept up a steady ebb and flow of Yuletide wishes and gaiety.

Holiday Breakfast
Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Hall dispensed holiday hospitality by giving a Christmas breakfast in their home, 1901 Hellotrope Drive. Their young son Tommy was present to aid in welcoming the many guests.

In the party were Lieut.-Com. and Mrs. I. F. Landis, Messrs. and Mesdames J. J. MacMullen, Paul Dinsmore, Calvin Flint, Braden Finch, Lyman Farwell, Lloyd Chenoweth, Edgar Elfstrom, Wilbur Elfstrom, Wilbur Barr, Lawrence Bemis, Stanley Anderson, Wayne Harrison, H. T. Dunning, Mortimer Plum, Franklin West, Horace Stevens, Fred Porgy, Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon, all of this community.

Happy Surprises
There were all sorts of exciting phases in connection with the family dinner on Christmas Day in the Cood Adams home, 802 South Broadway.

The absent sister of this family gathering was Mrs. Mary Bonnevill of Los Angeles, who went to Kokomo, Ind., for a holiday visit with her only son, Howard P. Thurston, and his wife and tiny son Bradford. Other brothers-in-law and the hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Leach of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Litt of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Adams of Anaheim.

Those completing the group of dinner guests included Miss Katherine Adams, just returned from Seattle where she received her master's degree in social science. She leaves after the first of the year for Santa Barbara where a fine position awaits her. With the Adams family were a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grafton of Whittier with their small son Billie. With Mr. and Mrs. Leach came the family bridegroom and bride, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Henry Newsome of Petaluma.

The marriage of Miss Louana Leach, Petaluma librarian, and Mr. Newsome, a newspaperman of that city, occurred Thursday, December 22, in Stockton. They departed today for Petaluma. In this family circle also were Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Merrick and sons, Billy and Jerry, who arrived unexpectedly on Saturday from Butte, Mont. They will remain for a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Leach and with Mr. Merick's mother, Mrs. Pearl Merick, and his sister, Mrs. Harold Segerstrom of this city.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Lott were their son-in-law and daughter, the Russell Washburns and daughter Gail of Los Angeles. After dinner, the son and daughter-in-law of the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams, arrived with their holiday guests, Mrs. Adams' parents and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Knox and the Misses Dorothy, Margaret and Charlotte Knox of Ashland, Ore., with Walter Knox Jr., of the Lockheed Airport, Los Angeles, and an aunt, Mrs. Jennie Cluff of Minneapolis, who is spending the winter in Los Angeles.

Gay Hospitality
An all-day celebration was staged on Christmas Day in the William Castler home, 514 Spurgeon street, where guests gathered in the early forenoon hours for a merry exchange of gifts as a preliminary to the turkey dinner of noonday.

This gift exchange centered around the big tree which completed the decorative effect. A drive over the Christmas tree-lined highways and streets of the community consumed afternoon hours, and again the party assembled in the Castler home for supper.

The group included with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. West, Mrs. Mary Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Val Clark and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mize.

Gala Celebration
Holiday celebration for Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Swales and members of their family group began early Christmas morning with a breakfast in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Farwell, Yorba street.

With the Farwells and their children, Nancy, Barbara and Geoffrey were Mr. and Mrs. Swales, with their two other sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Aaron of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith of Carmel, and Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Los Angeles. Completing the party were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dinsmore and Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon.

With the exception of the little children, the same group assembled in the evening for dinner in the Swales home, 2020 North Broadway. Joining the party were Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Robertson of San Marino and John Potter of St. Claire, Mich. Mr. Robertson, Mr. Potter and Mr. Swales were boyhood friends in St. Claire, so it was a happy time for reminiscing.

Dropping in later in the evening were Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hoiles and daughter, Miss Jane Hoiles; with their son and brother, Harry Hoiles of Bucyrus, Ohio, and Mrs. Hoiles' father, C. D. Crum of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. Mr. Crum arrived late last week for a visit. Three tables of games were in progress during the happy interval which climaxed a memorable holiday celebration for this group of relatives and friends.

Yule House-guests
Yuletide gayeties in the A. H. Taylor home, 203 West Twentieth street, revolved around the presence of holiday house-guests, Lieut.-Com. and Mrs. James B. Carter of Coronado and their daughter, Shirley Jane, who were here over the weekend, returning from last night to Coronado. Lieut.-Com. Carter, a nephew of Mrs. Taylor, is with the U. S. N. destroyer Reid, and will leave at an early date for a six months' cruise during which he will take part in the big naval maneuvers in the Caribbean Sea.

Completing the family party sharing Christmas day and its gay excitement of tree, holly wreaths and a turkey dinner, with Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and their house-guests, were two other nephews, Frederick and Thomas Dangers of Pomona, with the Taylors' son-in-law and daughter, the H. F. Van Meters and little daughters, Elizabeth and Mary Ann, of Long Beach, and a son and daughter-in-law, the John Lacy Taylors with their children, John, Richard and the baby, Madeline.

You And Your Friends
Donald Haiber of Placentia, who has relatives and friends in this community, underwent an appendectomy recently at St. Joseph hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lyons, 1312 North Olive street, greeted the arrival last week of Mrs. Lyons' mother and sister, Mrs. L. M. Moore and the Misses Helen and Ruth Moore, from Lorain, Ohio. They will be here for a several weeks' visit.

Pleasant Dinner Event Finds Setting In Was Home

Making their annual Christmas gesture of friendliness, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Was were dinner hosts Thursday evening to members of the staff of Security First National bank, where Mr. Was is manager. They staged the affair in their home, 617 Orange avenue, where hot punch and Christmas cookies were served in the living room in advance of the dinner hour.

Mrs. Was gave her long table the charm of scarlet tapers in matching branched candlesticks, linked together by bands of ribbon down either side. On these scarlet bands, cranberries spelled out the greetings, "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year."

Chubby little Santa Claus place cards, the work of Frank Was Jr., were written for the hosts and for Messrs. and Mesdames Fred Crowell, Linus Southwick, Carleton Smith, J. Wells Brown, Joseph Weber, Miss Doris Wild, Miss Jean McFadden, Mrs. Eddy Brannon, Messrs. Larry Gubin, Phil Huggard and David Dozier.

After-dinner hours were devoted to playing both lotto and bridge. Mr. and Mrs. Was and their children, Frank Jr., Bill and little Miss Peggy, went to Sierra Madre to spend Christmas with other members of Mrs. Was's family, with whom her mother, Mrs. Walter E. Bean, of San Jose, is visiting.

Engagement News Told In Midst Of Christmas Gayeties

Always anticipated among the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Kettler, is the Christmas Eve party held in the Kettler home at Springdale. But this year's event proved to excel all previous parties, because it was chosen as appropriate time to announce the betrothal of the daughter of the home, Miss Mary Kettler, and Howard Smith of Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy K. Smith of Huntington.

This pleasant news was revealed by individual cakes of the refreshment course, for on the icing was traced the names "Mary and Howard." Pecan ice cream roll with Christmas bell centers was served with the cake and coffee.

Miss Kettler, who is in her senior year at Pomona College, had made her first announcement to her college friends, by passing the traditional box of chocolates at a gay pre-Christmas party held at Blaisdell Hall on the campus. Among her Pomona activities are membership on the Associated Women Students' executive board, and presidency of the Women's Athletic association.

While Christmas Eve party guests were still exclaiming over the evening's romantic news, the wild jingling of bells recalled the fact that it was really Christmas and Santa Claus had arrived with gifts for everyone. Younger members of the party were required to sing a song or tell a Yuletide story before receiving their gifts.

The home decorations in which poinsettias and holly were mingled with white carnations, were one of the evening's many pleasant features for the guests, who included Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Pyle, Mrs. Elton Evans, Edna and Bob Evans, Mrs. Anna Blanchard, Barbara Ann Blanchard, Eagle Rock; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Robinson, Miss Lora Lee Robinson, Santa Monica; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kettler, Bob, Ed and Lila Kettler, Anaheim; Miss Lenore Terrell, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Plumlee, New Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Marshall, Jean and Mary Lou Marshall, Balboa; William Marshall, Costa Mesa; Mr. and Mrs. George Carlson, Oxnard; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kettler, Mr. and Mrs. William Kett-Smith of Ontario.

Panhellenic Workers

Prominent in Panhellenic society's Christmas ball plans, are Mrs. H. G. Wilson (left) and Mrs. Harry LeBar (right). Mrs. Wilson as music chairman, secured for tonight's ball in Veterans hall, the popular George Lewis orchestra of Pomona. Mrs. LeBar as ticket chairman, has been tireless in disposing of the admission cards, whose sale always nets a generous sum for the hostess society to present to the Junior College Student Loan fund.

Holiday Festivities Enjoyed By Happy Family Group

It was a gala Christmas party for which relatives were assembled Thursday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McBurney, 401 East Washington avenue. Heaping trays of sandwiches were provided as coffee and hot chocolate were served.

Some of the group played cards during the evening, while the younger folk danced or enjoyed games. Following an annual custom, members sang Christmas carols and exchanged gifts around the big tree.

With the W. R. McBurneys and their daughter and son, Ruth and Bill were Mr. and Mrs. Dean Smiley and sons, Bob and Jim; the A. J. Smileys; Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Smiley and daughter Noralyn; the Ray Browns; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beall and sons, Mac, David and Solon Beall; Miss Dorothy Truemper of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. McBurney, Mr. and Mrs. E. McBurney and daughters, the Misses Jean, Chelena and Roberta McBurney, Solen McBurney, Mrs. Loretta Cash, Miss Vera Cash, Malone Holmes; with Mrs. Glenn Patterson of Gooding, Idaho; Mrs. Harold Baker of Needles; Jim Robinson of University of Washington and Miss Elizabeth Emerson of Missouri.

Clarence Jordan Home Lends Setting For Tea

Guests thronged the home of the Clarence Jordans, 2006 Victoria Drive Friday afternoon for a tea at which the Misses Jean and Patricia Jordan entertained former school friends and other guests. Enjoying vacation from their studies at Knox college, Tenn., the two hostesses took this occasion to express holiday cheer with a festive reunion. Assisting throughout the afternoon with Mrs. Jordan and Miss Virginia Jordan, another daughter of the home, was Miss Natalie Nelson. All decorations were in Yuletide motif. Poinsettias, reindeer figures and scarlet tapers were charming features of the tea table arrangement. Pouring tea at different intervals were Mrs. R. H. Hardy and Mrs. A. B. Wimpy, and Mrs. Walter Kogler and Mrs. Benjamin F. Brubaker of Orange.

Quiet Wedding Occurs In Tia Juana as Holiday Event

Announced today as one of the Yuletide's most interesting events, was the marriage on Christmas day of Mrs. Ruth Riggle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Williams, 719 Orange avenue, and Gerald Lovejoy of Fullerton.

It was a very quiet ceremony occurring at high noon in the Mexican village of Tia Juana. Mr. and Mrs. Williams and the bride's two young sons, Harvey and Edward Riggle, accompanied the happy couple to the little border city and were the only ones attending the wedding.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy and their wedding guests returned at once to Santa Ana, where Mr. and Mrs. Williams were dinner hosts that evening to complete the holiday festivity.

Mrs. Lovejoy is in the sand and gravel business in Fullerton with his father, F. S. Case. He and Mrs. Lovejoy will make their home in this city, receiving friends after the first of the year, at 318 Wisteria Place.

DINNER PARTY

Members of a bridge club assembled Thursday evening at Danigers for a dinner party in advance of card play in the home of Mrs. A. P. Trawick, 2030 North Ross. Mrs. A. A. Hardy and the hostess, who held the two highest scores, had first choice of the interesting assortment of gifts provided for exchange. Others present were Mesdames Claude Sleeper, V. L. Motry, Don Hillyard, Francis Edmunds, Joseph Harless, L. N. Sherrard, Frank Brigante, John Miller and Elmer Sullivan.

Educators Are Asked To Be Dance Patrons

Tonight, as fruition of weeks of careful planning on the part of Panhellenic members, will come the annual holiday ball given for benefit of the Student Loan fund, and which will be held in Veterans hall.

At the very beginning of her year as president of the society, Mrs. R. C. Harris named committees to work for the ball, which has come to be recognized as the chief social event of holiday week. To Mrs. Victor Hupp was given the post of general chairman, with other active Panhellenic members assigned to different phases of preparation.

Mrs. William Floyd Cuddy had the responsibility of issuing invitations to the patrons and patronesses, and this was done formally as one of the latest activities. Because Santa Ana Junior college students will benefit by the dance proceeds, it has become traditional to head the list with Dana K. Hammond, college dean, and Mrs. Hammond, Edward M. Nealey, now retired, but so long a prominent member of the college staff, and Mrs. Nealey were included on this special list as were Mrs. Robert Northcross, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Bruff, Mr. and Mrs. John Tessmann (Mrs. Tessmann as a faculty member) and Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of schools, with Mrs. Henderson.

Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock in the quaint Toyland setting devised as a decorative scheme.

Mrs. Boyer Describes South America For Travel Section

Welcoming Mrs. C. P. Boyer home from her recent trip to South America, members of the South America Travel section heard the well known Santa Ana in an informative talk Friday afternoon at a meeting in the clubhouse.

Mrs. Boyer described the voyage of 37 days from Santa Ana to Valparaiso. She related various interesting features of her travels, describing South American cities including Lima, a modern city of half a million population.

The travel talk highlighted an affair at which Mesdames Perry Lewis, J. L. McBride, T. R. Trawick and Dr. Ada H. Henery presided as hostesses. A blazing fire on the hearth and a pretty Christmas tree were features of the inviting setting.

Mrs. S. W. Nau, leader was in charge of a short business meeting, while Mrs. Edith Cloyes directed the program. Following exchange of Christmas gifts, members were invited to the dinette, where tea was poured by Mrs. Nau and Mrs. Rolla Hays. Mrs. McBride had fashioned a table centerpiece of poinsettias and tapers. Plates of cookies, candies and nuts were arrayed.

Mrs. W. S. Thompson, president of the South America Travel section, was a guest. Other present were Mesdames F. L. Andrews, Albert Bowen, C. P. Boyer, A. N. Cox, Edith Cloyes, J. E. Gowen, A. M. Gardner, Rolla Hays, M. M. Holmes, W. W. Hoy, C. H. Jeffrey, S. A. Jones, W. W. Kays, B. B. Kellogg, Herbert Krahling, Perry Lewis, J. L. McBride, E. L. Madden, Bessie Mize, S. A. Moore, S. W. Nau, F. P. Nickey, G. E. Norton, Clara Prince, T. H. Trawick and the Misses Ida Hays, Arlie, Cleveland, Lucy Carter, Gertrude Minor and Dr. Ada H. Henery.

MERRY EVENING

Surrounded by gift packages was the pretty Christmas tree in the Water Star home, 401 East Bishop street, on the evening when Mrs. Stark received Kappa Delta Phi sorority members for their holiday party.

Court whist was introduced as early evening diversion, and prizes were awarded Miss Mary Crowe, Mrs. Charles Woodfill and Miss Marcene Cooke. When card tables were prepared for serving refreshments by candlelight, the ostentatious holiday motif to her linen and other appointments. Distribution of the gift packages followed.

Present with Mrs. Stark were Mesdames Meredith Crumley, Charles Woodfill, Frances Lacy, the Misses Floretta Harman, Marcene Cooke, Phyllis Hefke, Mary Crowe, Fern Anderson, Florence Wasson, Mildred Peterson, Lorraine Wheeler and Nadine Pennington.

BIRTHDAY PLANS

A reception honoring Mrs. Fannie Cunningham, 905 North Flower street, on her 40th birthday, a short party will be held at her home December 29 under the sponsorship of the Mayflower club of Santa Ana and the Tustin Pythian Sisters. She is a member of both organizations.

Mixing Bowl

BY ANN MEREDITH

In four days New Year's Eve will be here. Are you entertaining a crowd, or just staying close to your fire-side with a book? I am interested in the hostess who has a party planned for drinks, one of which will be punch, will be the order of the festive evening. Either of these punches will please, and if you wish to add to them, they can take that, too!

Champagne Punch to Serve 24
1 quart sweet cider
4 oranges
8 lemons
4 tablespoons sugar
1-2 glass of grenadine syrup (4 oz.)

2 quarts gingerale
1 pint of charged water
Plenty of finely chopped ice.
Squeeze fruit juice and strain into the cider. Pour this mixture over a bowl partly filled with ice and let ripen in refrigerator with the sugar and grenadine added. At serving time, stir in gingerale and charged water, taste, and add more sugar if desired.
Lemon Sherbet Punch Serving 18

1 quart lemon sherbet
4 lemons and 4 oranges
4 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon crushed mint or few drops of mint extract
1 quart charged water
1 pint of ice water.
Mix strained fruit juices with sugar, and if possible get fresh mint. Bruise in juice with spoon and let stand 2 hours. Strain and pour over a block of ice. Just before serving pour sherbet around ice, add water, then charged water and stir until well mixed.

Anyone who needs a reducing diet, needs a calory list. The reason, is that one is apt to nibble on the side and think the nibbles won't count. Just send for this list and see how much some of them do count. To get the list contribute something for the Mixing Bowl column and send to me with your stamped return addressed envelope.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Spare Ribs and Kraut for 4
1-2 quarts kraut
2 onions, peeled and sliced
2 pounds (or more) of pork spare ribs
Salt and pepper

Wash the kraut through hot and cold water until it tastes reasonably fresh. Arrange in a shallow baking pan, dust with pepper and chopped onion. Cut ribs in serving pieces and arrange on top, dusting with salt. Brown quickly, then add 1-2 cups of boiling water and reduce heat to barely simmer the dish. Bake about 4 hours, adding water as needed.

Frozen Fruit Cheese Salad
1 cake of cream cheese
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup grated pineapple, fairly well drained
1 cup diced marshmallows, soaked with pineapple for 15 minutes
1 cup whipped cream
Blend cheese in flat bowl, making it a cream with the mayonnaise and lemon juice. Add pineapple and marshmallows, by now well softened, blend a little more. Fold in stiffly whipped cream and pour into individual moulds or one large mould. Freeze in refrigerator, or cover mould with rock salt and chopped ice for 3 hours. Serve on lettuce, with a thin mayonnaise fruit flavored (lemon and orange juice are suggestions). The portions are six.

IDAHO STUDENTS

When Mac Beall, former Santa Ana football star, returned home last week from University of Idaho, he was accompanied by two friends to join in holiday festivities in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beall, 601 East Third street.

These fellow students were Dick Tauber, who will spend some of the time in Los Angeles; and Merle Stoddard, whose parents live in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. The trio stopped to visit with Merle's parents en route to California.

Joining the University of Idaho students for various affairs during the holidays is Jim Robinson of Honolulu, a student at University of Washington. He is spending vacation with his grandparents, the J. A. Smileys, 2800 North Flower street.

Where's Guy?

By RAY THOMPSON and CHARLES COLL

Patriotic Groups Join in Yule Dinner

Sixty or more Daughters and Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War shared a fine dinner and program Friday night in Modern Woodman hall. Messrs. C. E. Morgan, B. J. Parker and C. E. Prayton of the dining room committee, were assisted by their wives in serving the dinner at holly-wound tables.

President Ella Smith of the Daughters directed the program opening with general singing of "America" and the Salute to the Flag. Mrs. Cora Graham assisted by Lucile Cowan, Goldie O'Hair and Edith Troxell, led in the community singing of Christmas hymns and old-time songs. Commander Perry Groat of the Sons spoke briefly, and then directed the march around the Christmas tree from which gifts were distributed. The remainder of the evening was given over to Chinese checker play.

The big tree, donated by Roy N. Pollock who was assisted by C. F. Millen in decorating it, was later given to a home where a tree would otherwise have been lacking.

CLUB REUNION

Bringing together the full membership of the three-table bridge club, Mrs. Paul Reynolds, 1428 North Parton street, presided Thursday night at a reunion meeting of holiday gaiety. She introduced a dessert course at the beginning of the evening, serving plum pudding with hard sauce at a table gay with a snowy Christmas tree blooming with scarlet balls.

Mrs. Lucius Conkey and Mrs. Lee Hasenjaeger won prizes in the evening's contract play, which climaxed with the distribution of exchange gifts from the Christmas tree. Miss Betty Seely, home from University of Oregon, and Miss Dorothy Dunbar down from Los Angeles for the holidays, were accorded special welcome by Mrs. Reynolds and the remaining club members, the Misses Florence Turner, Mary Jean DuBois, Mesdames Lucius Conkey, Allen Carstenson, Paul Johnson, L. E. Holmes, Lee Hasenjaeger, Clyde Higgins, N. Carleton Smith and Lawrence Reynolds.

SORORITY CELEBRATES

With Miss Annie Tucker as hostess, Phi Omegas staged a merry Christmas party last week, with an exchange of pretty gifts presided over by Miss Helen Fine as the evening's Santa Claus.

After bridge play, the hostess grouped her guests at a prettily decorated table where they enjoyed refreshments served by the light of many red tapers. In the group were Mesdames Ronald Vincent, Lester Boyce, Harold Baker, Charles H. White Jr., Laurence Roberts, the Misses Helen Fine, Frances Whitehead, Myrna Brooks, Ruth McBurney, Hazel Oilphand and the hostess, Miss Tucker.

Carpenters' Auxiliary Has Festive Party

Carpenters Auxiliary members took part in one of their festive affairs Thursday afternoon when Mrs. F. E. Lonon was hostess in her home, 511 West Second street.

A silver tree with blue trimmings was an attractive feature of living room appointments. Covered-dish dinner was served in the dining room, where a mirrored snow scene with reindeer drawing a sleigh formed a centerpiece. There were red tapers, a small tree and red cellophane baskets of candy flowers to complete the setting.

Exchange of gifts was followed by a session of cards and Chinese checkers. Present with Mrs. Lonon were Mesdames Bell Borgsetter, Amy Billingsley, Bertha Bolland, Agnes Buckwalter, Betty Rupert, Esther Crabtree, Melvina Titchenal, Mary Lambert, Agnes Schroth, Helen Babcock, Ollie Minor, Phoebe Kelly, Helen Wright, Hopkins and Miss Joy Wright.

Church Societies

Annual Election
Returning this year's officers to their posts to serve a second term, members of Co-Workers class of South Santa Ana Church of Christ, combined a Christmas festivity with annual election at their last meeting in the church.

Mrs. Charles Briner, president; Mrs. Pearl Friend, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Cannon, teacher, were the officers so honored. Party phases of the meeting included an enjoyable exchange of gifts, and the tea hour when refreshments appropriate to the season were served.

COLLEGE REUNION

A wiener bake at Arch Beach was the occasion Friday night for a reunion of college friends.

Dick Phillips, who planned the event, is vacationing from the University of California. Also from Berkeley were Miss Helen Betty Risher and John McBride. Miss Mary Henderson, a student at Occidental, and Jack Robinson from U. S. C., were other vacationers in the party. Completing the group were Miss Anne Wetherell, Miss Jo Butler and Lucius Smith.

LEAVE FOR STOCKTON

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Frisby and son Eugene, 1012 Kilson Drive left this morning for Stockton where they will visit with Mr. Frisby's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Zura Randolph.

They were accompanied as far as San Jose by Mr. Gladys Carney of the Kilson Drive address, who will remain in the north for a visit with relatives. The Frisbys expect to return home Wednesday. Luncheon guests Thursday in the Frisby home were former Santa Anans, Mrs. R. H. MacCalla and son Bobbie of Long Beach.

Homecraft Section Has Holiday Tea

Woman's club Homecraft section members exchanged gifts and shared other holiday features last week when an afternoon affair was held in the home of Mrs. L. G. Holman, 1104 North Baker street. The leader, Mrs. W. L. Harbert, was co-hostess.

Others present were Mesdames L. E. Tarbox, J. R. Jenkins, E. A. Elwell, Byron Quivey, C. R. Walter, M. O. Wells and E. G. Maier. Tea and Christmas cookies were served.

GIRL RESERVE CAROLERS

Following their caroling tour of the city Friday night, Girl Reserve singers assembled in the home of Mrs. C. E. Tozier, 2420 North Park boulevard, for a party planned by Miss Marjorie McCulloch, advisor. Miss Betty Neff as Santa Claus, distributed exchange gifts. Refreshments were served by Miss McCulloch.

Others present were Mrs. Percy Budd and the Misses Verna Belle Maroney, Roberta Corcoran, Norma Area, Beth Plippen, Ida Marie Holland, Josephine White, Margaret Fine, Helen Fine, Mary Paxton, Peggy Paxton, Virginia Claypool, Barbara Robinson, June Winchett, Clare Spielman, Roberta Nichols, Jackie Morrison, Helen Lowe, Jean Mulbar.

Announcement was made that mid-winter camp will begin Thursday at Emma Otis camp instead of at Osceola as announced previously. Those planning to attend are asked to make their reservations with the Y.W.C.A., telephone 2081.

PRE-CHRISTMAS PARTY

One of the many pre-Christmas parties was held Friday night when Miss Stella Christ entertained in her home, 1003 Grand avenue. A white elephant gift exchange and a games program provided entertainment. The hostess' mother and sisters, Mrs. Martha A. Christ and the Misses Miriam and Ruth Christ assisted in serving ice cream, cookies and popcorn.

Guests were the Misses Betty Lacy, Helen Talbert, Mabel Willis, Melba Estes, Helen Allison, Elizabeth Welsh and Messrs. Tom Powell, Karl Christ, Bob Baines, Sam Stimpfle, Dave Dosier and David Welsh.

Miscellaneous Shower Is Compliment To Miss Whitfield

Miss Sue Jane Whitfield, fiancée of Chester E. Marks of Los Angeles was incentive for a miscellaneous shower last week when Mrs. George Gregg and Mrs. Jane Keller entertained in the Gregg home, 2440 Riverside Drive.

Decorated in blue and silver, a silver Christmas tree towering to the ceiling was of paramount interest, with poinsettias and white chrysanthemums completing the setting.

The honoree's mother, Mrs. C. A. Whitfield won first prize in one contest, while Mrs. Harriett Bonnell was rewarded for her high score in Chinese checkers. Miss Whitfield's cousin, Jean Farran of Fullerton had the pleasure of presenting the many shower gifts to the bride-elect.

Twenty guests shared the affair, which was concluded with the serving of refreshments.

Christmas Hospitality Expressed In Dinner-Bridge Affair

An expression of delightful Christmas hospitality was tendered last week in the H. Grady Felt home on South Sullivan street, where Mr. and Mrs. Felt entertained a group of friends at dinner and bridge.

The big Christmas tree which centered the home decorations, had its counterpart in a small tree resting on a mirror in the center of the beautifully appointed dinner table. Santa Claus place cards were written for the hosts, and for Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dorman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Melchert, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Valentine of Los Angeles and their brother, Erwin Valentine; Miss Alice Steinberg, Miss Marie Golden, and Messrs. Bob Yost and Hoyt Seely.

After their enjoyment of the luscious roast turkey dinner, guests took part in bridge play in which prizes were won by Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Dorman.

TRAINING HOME MECHANICS

Superintendent Johnson of the Chicago public schools is replacing the old manual training and domestic science courses with new "home mechanics" classes designed to teach the child how to handle the many time-saving devices that fill the modern home.

Parents generally will applaud this enlightened move and many fathers and mothers probably would themselves like to be exposed to the courses.

The man of the house, these days, has to be a combination auto mechanic, radio expert, electrician and plumber to keep the upper hand on the streamlined appliances and gadgets of the home. And if he doesn't know what to do about them when they get out of kilter he's likely to find them more time-consuming than time-savers; more instruments of inconvenience than of comfort.

In one course, Superintendent Johnson proposes that children be taught the use of tools as a first step in learning to effect simple repairs around the house. Another department will enlighten them on plumbing.

The general idea, says Mr. Johnson, is to make the child's work around the home more fun—an idea that will be welcomed as much by mother and dad as by Johnny and Mary.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

In California's Capital City, there is feverish excitement and preparation this week for big events of the week just ahead. Tens of thousands of visitors will pour into Sacramento for the inaugural ceremonies, the gubernatorial barbecue, the Governor's Ball and the opening of the 1939 State Legislature.

Culbert L. Olson, California's first Democratic Governor in more than four decades, is making ready to take over the reins of State government and his followers are determined to make it an occasion. It will be the American counterpart of a coronation ceremony. There will be pomp and dignity; there will be fun and gaiety.

All California loves a celebration and hundreds of thousands of citizens who don't journey to Sacramento for the festivities will follow the big show through their newspapers. And most of us sincerely hope, regardless of our political affiliations, that the new administration gets off to a good start—in an atmosphere of good will and harmony.

We hope, too, in addition to the festivity, that both Governor Olson and the State Legislature will take time for sober contemplation and will approach the work before them resolved to represent the people of California with honest regard for their welfare and their wishes. We have had enough of extremism and hysterical panaceas. If our pension legislation can be improved, either by State or federal action, without placing unfair burdens on the taxpayers, the improvement should be made. But extreme proposals, inviting State bankruptcy, must be rejected. If the Garrison Bond Act, destroying the two-thirds vote requirement on bond issues, bobs up again, it must be decisively defeated, for the people repudiated the act by more than a million majority. If the "Single Tax" or other visionary schemes are proposed, the Legislature should table them—and not waste days of time arguing about them.

Strike up the band, by all means, and let's have a grand inaugural ceremony. But after the music dies down, let's have serious deliberation and honest, constructive representation of the people of California.

THE CLEVELAND TRUST COMPANY BUSINESS BULLETIN

The Second Attempt

This is our second attempt at recovery from the long depression. If one were searching for a single indicator to show whether or not we were making real recovery back to normal conditions, he might perhaps find the most reliable one in the figures showing what proportion of our entire output of finished steel consists of heavy products. In normal times half of all the steel produced in this country goes into heavy products such as plates, beams, rails, and castings. They are used for construction, railroads, power plants, machinery, and production equipment.

In the past seven years only about one-third of the steel output has consisted of heavy products. The other two-thirds has been made up of the light products that go into such things as automobiles, refrigerators, household equipment, and containers for canned goods. In large measure the heavy products are bought by producers and paid for by security issues, while the light products are bought by consumers and paid for out of wages.

These steel figures hold the key to our recovery problem. If we could once more turn a normal proportion of our national energies back to production financed by expanding enterprise our recovery problem would be solved. It will be done when businessmen have enough faith in the future, and sufficient confidence in the prospects for profits, to lead them to shape their plans by long-term expectations. It cannot happen while we guide our national policies by the theory that recovery depends on consumer purchasing power supplied by pump-priming expenditures.

This second recovery attempt of ours is based on the same economic doctrines that was followed last time. We have profited somewhat by experience, and the federal spending is being better administered than it was before. Nevertheless we are still failing to deal with the controlling factors. These include the problems of the railroads and the utilities, the meagerness of business profits, the difficulties of labor relations, and the competition of government with business.

We are justified in feeling pretty confident about business improvement next year, and especially in the first half of next year, but this country needs a longer-term confidence than that. The year 1939 will test our national capacity to generate a self-supporting recovery. If we can do that, and if the international situation does not become too unfavorable, our recovery can last a long time. The outcome depends on government and business, and on our ability to overcome obstacles in order to seize opportunities.

Prospects for 1939

Business men expect commentators to make forecasts as the old year draws toward its close. In compliance with this established custom the writer of the Business Bulletin hazards the following personal estimates about probable developments in 1939. The monthly average of industrial production was 110 in 1937, and it will probably be 85 or 86 in 1938. It now seems likely that its average in 1939 will be

IS THE TOWNSEND RECOVERY PLAN A RACKET?

"A parrot from the pension roost," defines me to prove that the Townsend Plan is just a legalized form of stealing.

To get something for nothing, or to try to get something, under false pretenses and give nothing in return is equivalent to stealing. To contend that the Townsend plan will increase production and not to be able to explain why it will not increase production when reduced to small scale operation, is certainly an attempt to fool the people and get something for nothing.

The "Townsend parrots" cannot explain the Townsend claim—that it will increase production—when brought down to a small scale. Any theory that cannot be tested and proved by increasing or decreasing the scale of its operation and stand the test is not a theory or a principle, it is a fake and a delusion.

To illustrate: As one commentator on the Townsend plan did by inquiring whether it would make it easier if 10 men were carrying a log and four got out from under the log and got on top of the log, whether it would make it easier for the six men left carrying the log. And when the "Townsend parrots" cannot answer this question, cannot explain their theory when reduced to small scale operation, then they are simply parrots by repeating that it will work when on a big scale.

Or, if the "parrots" cannot explain how A's taking a bottle of milk from B and drinking part of it himself and giving the rest to C would increase the total amount of milk, then they cannot demonstrate that the Townsend plan will increase the total national income.

Of course, it is not up to anyone who challenges the practicability of the Townsend plan to prove that it will not work. A negative cannot be proved, only by proving a positive. But, it is up to the advocates of the Townsend Recovery Plan to demonstrate by small numbers so that the ordinary mind can understand it, how taxing one group and transferring the tax to another increases the national wealth. It is up to the "Townsend parrots" to answer Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill who said, "If government could CREATE purchasing power taxation and debt would all have been abolished centuries ago. No party would ever lose an election if it could 'create' purchasing power." And this is exactly what the Townsend Recovery Plan contends—that they can increase purchasing power by taxation, which has never been done in all history.

And it is not being a parrot when axioms are quoted and can be explained and illustrated. A "parrot" is a man who keeps on making statements that he does not understand and cannot explain or illustrate. For example, saying taking from one group, as by the Townsend Plan, will increase the amount that is left for those who have had some part of what they possessed taken from them; that a part is greater than the whole.

Understand I am not contending that taxing one group to support another group is stealing but I am contending that to misrepresent and claim that it would improve the lot of those who produced and who are obliged to turn over to the pension recipients a part of the fruits of production is attempting to get the comforts of life under misrepresentation and that this is equivalent to legalized stealing. It is axiomatic and does not need a proof to state that any of the comforts of life taken from the producers, reduces their living standards, their real income, and does not increase it.

"The parrot from the pension roost" tries to insinuate that a man who sacrifices from using the comforts of life and invests in stocks and bonds is not serving the prosperity and happiness of the majority by so doing; that it is not necessary that there be enough prospects of profits for a man to sacrifice for the present from using the comforts of life to invest in tools and equipment by way of stocks and bonds so that all workers can receive higher real wages. This pension dreamer who believes that wealth is created by taking from one and giving to another seems to believe that buying stocks, in which there is a risk, is detrimental to the great majority of people. The trouble with our country now is that there are not enough people willing to take risks with the hope of adding to their wealth. Risks have made this a great country and anything that discourages a man from taking risks by the way of taxation whether it be a transaction tax or any other kind of a tax hurts the prosperity and happiness of the majority of the people. Where would the working man be, who had no capital, if no one had been willing to invest in tools and equipment? The prosperity and happiness of the majority of the people would have been infinitely less than it is at present. It is men who have not been able to manage their own affairs that invariably have been offering magical plans to make it possible to live without work as the Townsend men are now advocating that is causing our trouble. It is not the men who are willing to take the risks of buying stocks, tools that is wrecking our character and making us lose our liberty. And these men are doing a great harm to humanity by their misinforming and misleading the voters.

about 104, and that it will not be higher or lower than that by more than four percent.

National income seems likely to make a new high record for the recovery period, and to be a little above the level of 1937.

Wholesale prices will probably advance slowly in 1939, but their average level for the year above that of 1938, but lower than that of 1937.

Average freight loadings may advance about 15 percent, with the increase probably no less than 10 percent or more than 20 percent.

Automobile output in 1938 should be between 30 and 50 percent larger than that of 1937.

Contracts for new construction will probably be larger than those of any previous recovery year. They will probably be the largest since 1930, but not as large as those of that year.

The value of department store sales will probably increase so that they will be nearer to the levels of 1937 than to those of 1938.

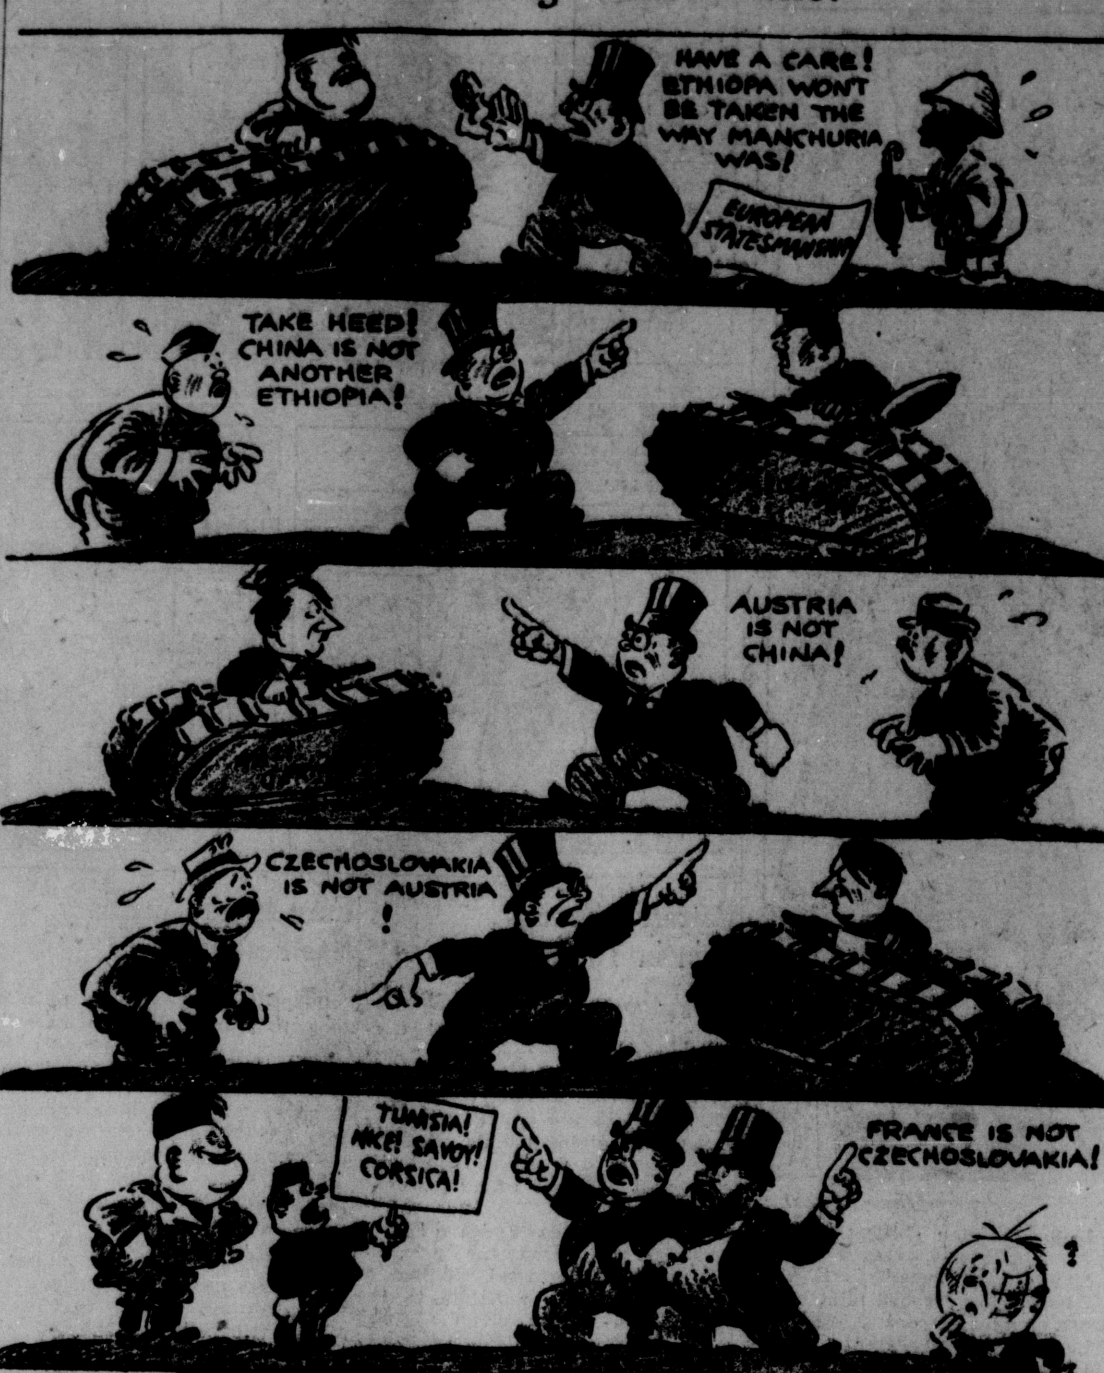

The output of iron and steel is likely to be greater than that of 1935 but not as large as the outputs of 1936 and 1937. The advance from this year's level may well be between 30 and 50 percent.

Among series likely to make a new all-time high records are petroleum refining, output of electric power, tobacco products, and the average hourly earnings of factory workers.

Merchandise exports will probably be smaller and imports higher in value than in 1938, with imports probably greater than exports.

It seems probable that the average price of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange will be above the level of 1935 and below that of 1936. The year of 1939 will mark the 10 year anniversary of our last prosperity. Recovery is no longer merely something to be desired; it has become something that is required if we are to continue in the path of progress that made this nation great.

No Kidding This Time?

Fair Enough

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—It was J. B. Matthews, an early witness before the Dies committee, who popularized the term "fellow-traveler," thus meeting the need for a convenient descriptive label for those who call themselves progressives, New Dealers and the like, but, openly or secretly, in the Stalin dictatorship as the greatest experiment ever made for human betterment. The expression was not original, being already familiar in the Communist press and in those butchers' paper magazines which also profess to be progressive but are "fellow-travelers" themselves. But the public had not heard it, and Matthews put it into the American language on the authority of one who had been a "fellow-traveler" himself but for reason of his own had backed.

A "fellow-traveler," said he, is one who goes along faithfully but without acquiring formal membership in the community party and thus is able to enter and work for the cause in organizations which would either exclude or smother the work of an avowed Communist.

It is a pat expression widely used now, and it need not be cheapened or discredited by misuse if it is reserved discriminately for those who passionately oppose dictatorship, brutality and the denial of human rights in Germany and Jersey City but cannot be persuaded to say a word against the great Russian experiment. The "fellow-traveler" may identify himself as clearly by his failure to declare himself in certain circumstances as by an expression of support.

The same tag is hardly appropriate, however, for those who are, less consciously, "fellow-travelers" of the Nazi-Fascists. There is a need of some equivalent term for this element and necessarily may do her stuff in time, but while we are waiting it can do no harm to observe the straying of many who believe themselves to be true, patriotic Americans into un-American—in fact, anti-American—associations and habits. The Dies committee hearings produced the names of many organizations, all high-sounding, which arouse the hearth-and-home instinct of the easily alarmed and commit them to purposes which are no less dangerous than Communism to the Americanism which at heart they love.

There are two main sources of infection—Moscow and Berlin—but still there are Americans who are not subtle enough to realize that Berlin is just as eager and energetic as Moscow to disrupt the people, equally hostile to the American form of government and the life of the nation. The Berlin method is copied from the Russian method. As the Communists selected a Kamsan of revolution to lead their attack in the guise of twentieth century Americanism, the other enemy selects other native Americans of similar caliber to promote internal strife in the belief that they are serving 100 per cent Americanism.

There is an important difference between the Communists and their "fellow-travelers" and those glib fall-guy patriots who serve the Nazi-Fascist conspiracy. The Communist and the "fellow-traveler" know what they are doing, but the fall-guys not only don't know that Berlin is attacking American unity through them but would resent being told that they are stupid enough to be so used. Yet it should be plain enough, considering that the American atmosphere was free of this propaganda three years ago and that the agitation and the organization of hate groups among the American people date distinctly from that day when Hitler's newspapers warned the Americans that Fellow Citizens:—One might as well hope to change the sun in its course as to change the thought of the average man—especially one who writes and writes and writes, saying the same thing over and over again. So—

Well, in the "Sharing the Comforts" column the other evening I noticed a quotation from Westbrook Pegler. Mr. Pegler said that women in business had lowered wages. The writer of "Sharing" said No, that the entrance of women into labor's field had not lowered wages. From there he went on to say that the increase in production as a result of woman's work made it possible to pay bigger wages.

Strange as it may seem, both these men are right. When Mr. Pegler stated that the entrance of women into all lines of work had lowered wages he spoke a great truth. When Mr. Hoiles said that the labor of women had made it possible to pay higher wages he, too, spoke the truth.

You see, Mr. Hoiles did not read carefully the statement made by Mr. Pegler. The latter said that wages WERE lowered by women. Mr. Hoiles said that the labor of women made it POSSIBLE to pay higher wages.

The fact is that women secured their first foothold in industry by working for wages so low that men would not, could not, compete. The inevitable result was a general lowering of the pay in every line of work in which women were engaged.

Many of the larger companies excused themselves for hiring women on the ground that men were not so well fitted for their particular work. Yet the universal testimony of employers who are unprejudiced is that men are more expert in any and every line of productive work. This, of course, as an average. No one at the present attempts to deny that the entrance of women in the field of labor did lower wages.

And yet, Mr. Hoiles is right when he said that it should not be so. Because all wage is paid from production. Manifestly, the greater the production the greater is the ability to pay wages. But alas—

When women entered the field of industry and upped production while lowering cost, the generous employer paid to himself and his associates all the added profit. A fact which Mr. Hoiles prudently overlooked.

Certainly women made it possible to pay higher wages. Just as certainly this added possibility was paid out in higher salaries to the men who were shrewd enough, unscrupulous enough to take advantage of labor's needs, the willingness of women to work for less.

All which brings us to consider the question of how much a man is worth in the way of salary or wages. Which is a matter worthy the gravest consideration. To say

Germany might take an interest in our internal affairs which would be unpleasant. That threat is now being carried out.

But, dangerous to freedom as this agitation is, the Americans who led themselves to the anti-American purposes of Berlin cannot accurately be called "fellow-travelers of the axis." They are and yet they aren't. They serve an enemy just as brutal and implacable, as cunning and treacherous, but, unlike the Communists and their "fellow-travelers," they are unaware of foreign inspiration.

With negligible exceptions they sincerely believe that their ideas occurred naturally, spontaneously in themselves. And, against differing from the Communists and their "fellow-travelers," they do not see where their course would lead or visualize the wreckage of the very liberties which they cherish should they one day sweep on to power.

That a man is not WORTH such well hope to change the sun in its course as to change the thought of the average man—especially one who writes and writes and writes, saying the same thing over and over again. So—

The head of General Motors is paid a princely sum each year—and is no doubt worth that amount as well as to the more highly paid employees. But is he worth it to the general public, to the social order? Of course he is not. It is possible that he is worth more than the average workman, though this is a moot question. Exactly how much more no one can say not would anyone with the least idea of values and where those values belong, attempt to set a price.

These highly paid executives are worth their salaries because they have been able to take away from the producer a large part of his product, sell the product to the public at a greater price than should be paid—and make everybody else like it.

Now, I am not objecting. In fact, I'd like to be one of these executives. (Executives might be better word). Yet I do say that we who are sticking out our necks to the axe are as well without our heads. They have been of small value to us, financially.

A people who will create their own money, turn it all over to a private institution for a song, sing the song themselves, then borrow it all from the parties to whom they have given it, paying interest at usurious rates—no, such people are not crazy. They are just 4-d fools.

N. B.—We have never had an administration which has NOT done just that thing.

P. S.—A prosperous New Year to all workers.

C. S. McCandless, Sr.

Fellow Citizens: The recent grand jury indictments, returned against a number of doctors, medical societies and the American Medical Association, may or may not be justified in some of the specific cases. No doubt some doctors do make of their profession a money-making racket, thus bringing an honorable profession into disrepute.

But to condemn the whole medical profession; many of whom have devoted their lives to aiding the poor and helpless, carrying hundreds of bad accounts, "on the cuff," for doing the very thing which the government through the Wagner Act, deliberately encourages organized labor to do, simply makes Hitler's treatment of the Jews look like a get-together picnic.

The sore spot seems to have been hit when the doctors failed to welcome, with open arms, the socialized medicine plan, and took steps to treat as heathen all doctors who did.

I am not in a position to say whether or not such action is wise. I don't know. The doctors may be selfish in throwing on socializing their profession, I can't say. But it does seem too bad that a child's health and perhaps his life should be subjected to the whims of political control.

If it is wrong for doctors to organize to ostracize those brother doctors who fail to measure up to the by-laws of the organization, then it should be wrong for laborers to organize, impose a "closed shop" on the employer and then ostracize fellow workers who will not or cannot pay to join their organization. Yet this is being done every day, and being endorsed by the government. I'll leave it to any fair minded person, with over ten million unemployed, which organization causes the greatest amount of suffering, the American Medi-

YOU AND YOUR Nation's Affairs

The Real Progressives

WALTER E. SPAHR

Professor of Economics, New York University

One of the difficult things in life is to separate issues and facts from personalities. In dealing with economic issues, and, to less extent, with political issues, we are probably confronted in the main with institutions. But it is particularly at such times, when we happen to become deeply concerned about what is happening in our institutions, the common tendency undoubtedly is to analyze only superficially the behavior of the institution itself and to concentrate our attention upon the persons who may happen to be administering, or associating with, it at the moment. This is because we tend to personalize institutions and issues. We find it much easier to like or dislike a person who symbolizes an institution than we do the institution or issue itself. Then it seems to be human nature to desire to find a person on whom we can vent our spleen when something goes wrong.

In these matters not many of us, certainly, pause to separate carefully the persons from the systems or institutions with which we think we have our quarrel. Sometimes some social institution goes wrong and the persons temporarily in charge are innocent victims of what happens. On the other hand, the institutions are sometimes led into difficulties by the individuals in charge. But the point is that regardless of where the responsibility lies we tend to personalize all these issues; and it is here that great injustices arise.

It is easy to notice that a newspaper reporter or columnist, or other commentator, who is a personal friend and admirer of some public official, will minimize or evade the latter's shortcomings, emphasize his virtues, and perhaps concentrate upon movements, systems, or institutions when things go wrong. Many commentators who personally dislike tend to reverse the procedure. There are not many commentators who can separate principle, institution, and personality, and deal with each on its merits. Yet the simple fact of the matter is that getting at and presenting truth requires this objectivity. It is only by getting at truth that humanity advances. And we can get at truth only by scientific examination of evidence; this, in turn, requires absolute objectivity.

The public discussions of our economic and political issues since 1929 have been saturated with a lack of this objectivity. The consequence has been a great muddling of issues. A criticism of an economic program of President Roosevelt or former President Hoover is widely considered as a personal attack upon him. And when one can honestly convict him of a major inconsistency or of hedging on a principle, the pointing out of such a fact may be chalked up to personal dislike or to a desire to injure, whereas it may grow out of an intense desire to adhere to facts regardless of personalities. There are commentators in this country who value personal integrity above all else, and who will condemn a violation of it by a public official regardless of whether he be a personal friend or a person of only casual interest to the commentator.

In time, such commentators prove their objectivity to all people who know how to appraise such things. While facts and time are working on their side, patience, toleration, and a strong backbone are demanded of them. But they are the great men and women of the world. The scientific method has in it some such people. So do most walks of life whether they be farming, a trade, a profession, or government service. These people are the characters. They are easily recognized. They represent the best thought and finest conscience in the nation. They are the stabilizers. They are the men and women who insist upon clean and careful government. They are scientists in their thinking. They are the ones who really press for social justice. They are, as Dr. Robert A. Millikin recently said, the real progressives. To be more exact his words were: "The only real progressive is the man who is using the scientific method—the only method that has led to progress in the past."

Assistant Secretary of War
WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—In my capacity as the industrial engineer of the war department, charged with the responsibility of finding munitions of war can be produced in any emergency, I have dealt literally with thousands of business leaders. I am frank to say that they have cooperated with me in every way. There exists between the army and industry today a firm bond of understanding. It was not always that way.

About the time of the Armistice, there was a feeling among veterans that businessmen were merely profiteers and among businessmen that all army officers on administrative duties had their hands swathed in red tape. The restoration of confidence in each other was accomplished in various ways. After the Armistice, the army frankly recognized its own shortcomings and proceeds to take steps to correct them. Military leaders admitted the undesirability and their own inability to become industrialists. They had no intention then, nor do they have any now, to run industry at any time, either in war or in peace. They realize that to win a war it may be necessary to mobilize the full resources of the nation and that the most efficient way of getting the maximum effort is to place responsibility for each phase of mobilization upon those most competent to bear it. The way to get most out of industry, they reason, is to let industry itself take charge of the industrial front. Before industry and the army could meet on common ground, it was obvious that each would have to get a broader view of the capabilities and limitations of the other.

The army began to send officers to our leading universities for courses in business administration. It detailed men to civilian industrial plants. It established schools in the supply arms and services and instructed its staff officers in business organization and business methods. At the apex of its school system for supply officers, it provided the army industrial college. This school trains officers, not only of the army but also of the navy and the marine corps, for production work in peace and for planning industrial mobilization in war. It brings to its lecture platform industrial leaders, labor ex-

Cinderella Slaves All Day, Cries As Selfish Sisters Hie Off To Big Dance

(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Everyone knows the story of Cinderella, the sweet little girl whose whole life was changed when her father took as his second wife a disagreeable widow with two mean and selfish daughters. And can't you just imagine clever Yvonne Dionne playing the part of Cinderella? Here she is, hard at work scrubbing the hearth. As the story goes, her stepmother makes her do it every day. And that's not all—she also has to wash dishes, make beds and carry cinders. That's why her stepisters call her Cinderella.

(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Look who's here! Marie and Annette Dionne as the two mean stepisters . . . all dressed up to go to a ball given by a charming prince. What lucky girls! And how unfortunate Cinderella is. She has helped her stepisters look prettier than ever before. And they don't even thank her. "Well, ragged cinder girl, we must be going." You can just hear them say "The Prince's coach awaits without." (Without Cinderella, they mean.) Well, you can't blame Cinderella if she has a little cry.

(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

You'd cry, too, if you missed out on a swell party. Cinderella is sad and lonely. Then suddenly . . . well, who is this pretty little stranger, with crown and magic wand? Why, none other than Cecile Dionne! And she looks cute dressed as Cinderella's Fairy Godmother. She has just dropped in from Fairyland to find out what is causing Cinderella's tears. And it doesn't take Cinderella very long to explain all about the Prince's wonderful party which she so badly wants to attend.

Capone Faces Dark Future On Release From Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—The man who once ruled the country's mightiest gangster empire will leave Alcatraz Jan. 19.

Al Capone will find his power swept away and a rocky, disastrous future stretching ahead.

He is broken in health. Repeal has knocked the bottom out of his far-flung illicit Chicago liquor trade and the gambling racket control has passed to others.

No Complete Freedom
The government says Capone has no visible assets. Finally, when he leaves the "Rock" he will not gain complete freedom after all.

He has yet to serve a one-year sentence in Cook county, Illinois, on a misdemeanor charge in connection with his conviction for income tax evasion.

Chicago authorities have already indicated that before Capone's release there it is likely a county or state commission will pass on his mental condition.

Owes U. S. $50,000

In addition, the one-time "Public Enemy No. 1" owes the government a $50,000 fine and $7692 in court costs assessed at the time of his trial in 1931.

There has been supposition that Capone still holds valuable real estate in Chicago, Miami, and California.

But sources close to Capone declare "Al can never come back."

His health may be the deciding factor.

"Blew His Top"

Almost a year ago the "big shot" suddenly "blew his top." Leaving the mess hall he slumped to the ground.

He turned on the hospital orderlies. Six guards were required to subdue him. He lay for days in the prison hospital, sometimes with arms and legs pinioned to the bed, according to reliable reports coming out of the agency of Alcatraz in San Francisco Bay.

"He is suffering from intermittent mental disturbances," the Department of Justice announced laconically at the time. "For the greater part of the time his mind is lucid. His condition is in no wise due to confinement, but grows out of conditions originating prior to his incarceration."

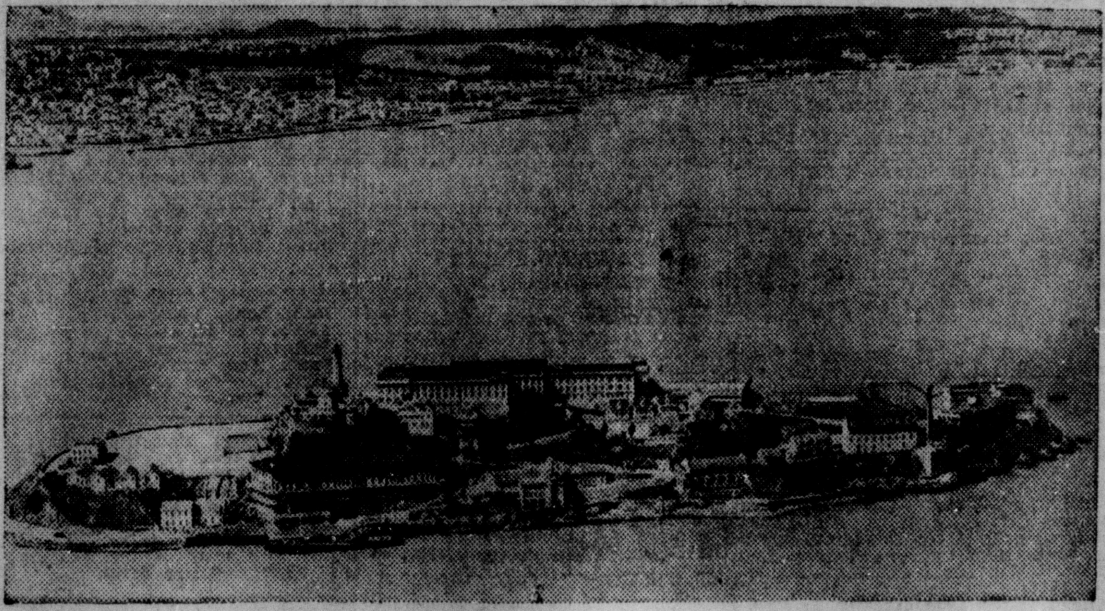

Expensive Treatment

No further comment has come from federal officials. Capone is still undergoing malaria treatment. When he leaves Alcatraz, where he was transferred from Atlanta in August, 1934, he may face expensive treatments.

The Treasury Department at Washington claims he has no visible assets and derides the rumor that a large sum of money is being

Margaret Beck, Navy Man Marry

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 27.—News was received at Christmas of the romantic marriage of Margaret "Peggy" Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rollo O. Beck of Laguna Beach, who, following a Gretna Green trip to Yuma, Ariz., returned as the bride of Herman Gajeway, of Troy, N. Y. They were married by the Rev. Raymond C. Acheson of the Presbyterian church at Yuma.

Mr. Gajeway is a member of the engineering staff of the U. S. S. Dale and will leave with the destroyer from San Pedro January 4 for a tour to eastern waters. He is a graduate of Troy high school in his home town in New York state. The bride is a graduate of Tusculum high school and for the past year has been prominent in the first aid classes conducted in Laguna Beach by Dr. Alan Hansen. They are living until the groom's sailing date at 390 Third street, the Laguna Beach home of the bride's father.

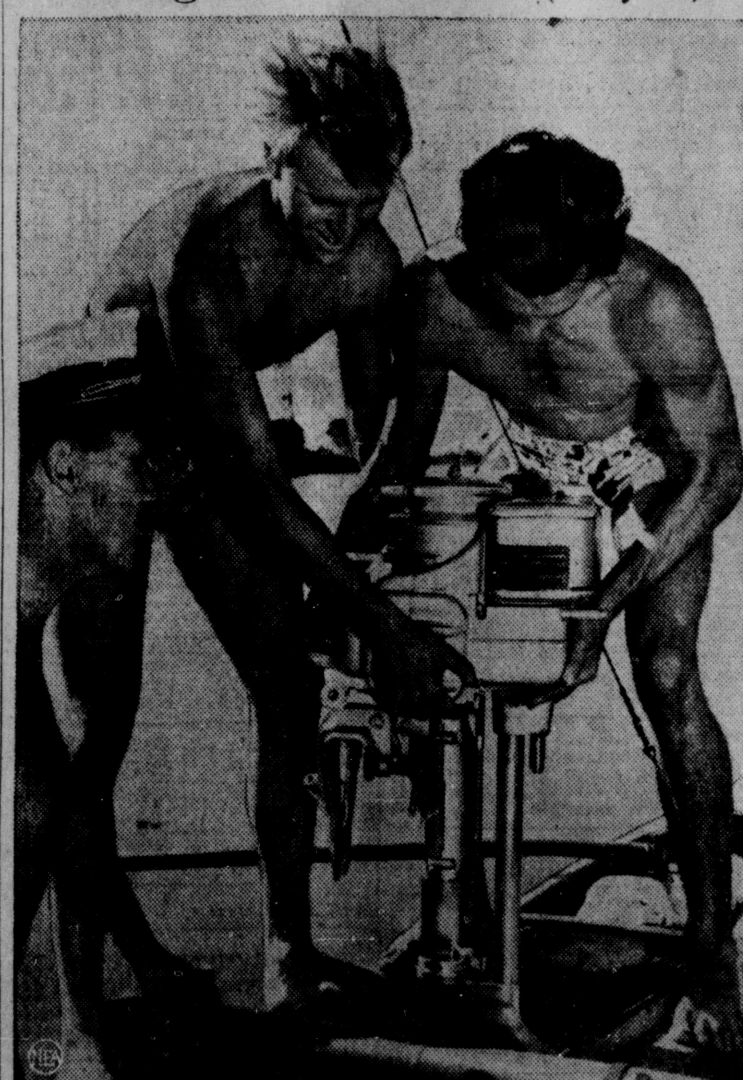

GUY SKIDMORE SPEAKS

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 27.—Guy Skidmore, well known in Laguna Beach, was one of a group of Christmas day speakers at a Los Angeles cafeteria Sunday. Skidmore, formerly of the subdivision development firm of Skidmore brothers, and an early pioneer of Laguna's organization from village to town, has for many years been a devotee of natural foods and his remarkable physical development is, by himself and many others, attributed to his dietetic regime. Accompanying Skidmore were his mother, Mrs. Catherine Brooks, affectionately known as the "Mother of Laguna," now residing in Long Beach, and Mrs. Skidmore's two young daughters, Beverly and Maureen Skidmore.

More Than a Score of Pneumonia Germs; Non-Virulent Types Common

Whereas it was once thought that there was but a single pneumonia germ, it is now known that there are many different types. Classification includes up to 22 or more. Some types are much more important than others, because of the frequency with which they are seen in cases of this disease.

Some forms of pneumonia germ which are not virulent are found frequently in the mouths of people so that bacteriologists report that 80 to 90 per cent of people have pneumonia germs with them. Many times, however, these germs are not capable of causing disease in a normal person.

It seems possible that sometimes a germ which is not ordinarily virulent may take on a new form in which it is quite virulent. In the mouths of many people germs are found which are actually virulent at the time they are found, and which seem to have been picked up by healthy people from cases of pneumonia.

The germs do not live long outside the human body. When they are exposed to sunlight they die in a short time. Apparently an hour and a half is the limit of time a germ can live in sunlight outside the body. There are records indicating that germs have lived as long as 10 days in a dark room in contact with moist sputum.

There are also records that germs suspended in the air in badly ventilated rooms in which persons with pneumonia have coughed have lived for several hours. Such virulent germs coming in contact with a person who is susceptible or coming in contact with people in large numbers may cause pneumonia.

The symptoms of pneumonia have been frequently described in this column. It is important to prevent the spread of this most fatal of all acute diseases. In preventing the spread of pneumonia, it is necessary to bear in mind that it attacks those who have their resistance lowered by cold or chilling, overindulgence in alcohol, or by similar factors that lessen resistance.

The combination of attendance at a football game on a cold, wet day, with inadequate protection against the winter, and overindulgence from the contents of a pocket flask, is an invitation to pneumonia.

Nowadays there are new methods of diagnosis and of treatment which can be carried out by competent doctors, and which save the lives of great numbers of those who have the disease. The fact that is most important is getting an early diagnosis and then treatment. Nursing is so important, that most modern doctors, if possible, put the patient with pneumonia in a hospital.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Dec. 27.—Friends from Rock Springs, Wyo., Mr. and Mrs. Judson Gibbs, were entertained for the holiday by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fish have with them throughout the holiday season their son, Delson Fish, who is with the U. S. navy located at San Diego, and Mrs. Fish.

Mrs. F. M. McDonald has left for the home of her daughter, Mrs. Meyers, at Oakdale, called by the serious illness of Mrs. Meyers.

Mrs. William Monroe is visiting relatives in the state of Indiana. Mr. Monroe may go east soon and bring home a car for a friend, also making a short stay and bringing his wife home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Anderson joined their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Fox, at Christmas dinner at their home in Santa Ana.

Christmas day was spent by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murdy and their daughters at Oceanview, where they joined Mrs. Murdy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Payne, in a celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Eastwood and family joined a family Christmas party in Santa Ana, with Miss Ruth Card and Mr. Faye as hostesses.

Mrs. Kate Mills of South Bend, Ind., has arrived in the home of her brother, H. D. Chamberlain.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Grandy entertained at Christmas dinner, their son, Douglas Grandy, and family, of Compton; nephew, Samuel McKee and wife of Beverly Hills; niece, Miss Louise McKee of San Francisco, and a cousin, Mrs. Florence Richards of Los Angeles.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (Special)—It took Mrs. Thomas Leslie Nightingale, of Sacramento, Cal., 3840 hours to crochet the filet table scarf which was awarded first prize in the recent National Crochet Contest.

The scarf contains two and one-half miles of thread No. 150, the finest obtainable, and was made with a size 15 crochet hook, the smallest size ever made and no longer on the market.

Did Mrs. Nightingale draw a deep sigh of relief when she surveyed the masterpiece, prominently featured among the other exhibits at the American Woman's Association clubhouse in New York? Not at all. She doesn't think that the job was tedious. And she'd rather crochet than do anything else she can think of.

Started Young

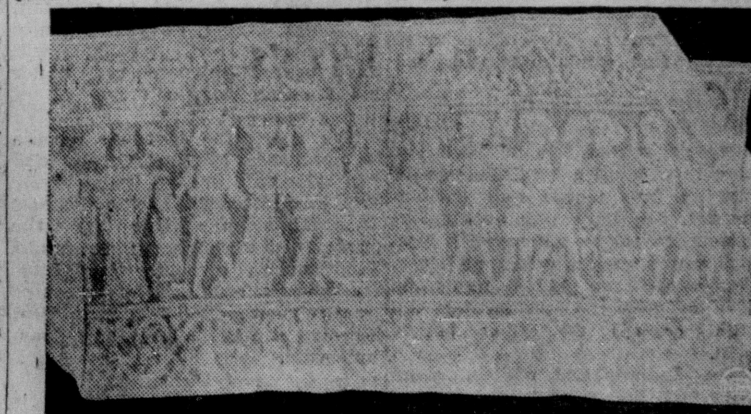

"I learned to crochet when I was 8," the smilingly pleasant, gray-haired prizewinner explained. "And I've been at it ever since. Usually I'm busy making something about eight hours a day. I don't like to cook. And I definitely do not like housework. Our meals are of the simplest sort—steaks or chops or something which takes little time to prepare, leaving me many free hours to crochet."

Within the past few years, Mrs. Nightingale has learned to work from pictures rather than directions. Her husband, an amateur photographer, photographs some piece of handiwork in a book (the antique tapestry from which the prize-winning filet table cloth was made, for example), then puts the picture under a large magnifying glass he made for her. Mrs. Nightingale thus is able to count the stitches through the glass. As a result, her collection includes many handsome replicas of historic pieces.

Followed Hobby From Childhood

National Crochet Champion Mrs. Thomas Leslie Nightingale keeps her crochet hook going eight hours a day.

Two and a half miles of thread and 3840 hours of work went into this filet table scarf which won first prize in the National Crochet Contest for Mrs. Thomas Leslie Nightingale, of Sacramento, Calif.

NOVA RATED SECOND TO LOUIS BY 'RING'

NEW YORK (UP)—Lou Nova, young Alameda, Cal., heavyweight, today was rated the world's No. 1 heavyweight challenger in The Ring magazine's annual ranking of boxers.

His impressive victories over Gunnar Barlund and Tommy Farr gained him that coveted rating. Editor Nat Fleischer explained in his copyrighted annual story in the February issue.

Champion Joe Louis, ranked as "The Best of the Year," was placed all alone in group No. 1, topping all heavyweights. Nova heads group No. 2 which includes Max Baer, Bob Pastor, Tony Gato, Maxie Rosenbloom and John Henry Lewis in that order.

Nova was given third place in the boxer of the year rating, behind Henry Armstrong, who won his second and third titles in 1938, adding the lightweight and welterweight titles to the featherweight laurels he won in 1937.

Fleischer considered Louis' feat in knocking out Max Schmeling in the first round a more notable achievement than Armstrong's in becoming the ring's first "triple champion."

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The Hollywood Stars, with Ernie Smith doing some remarkable place-picking, overwhelmed the Salinas Packers, 25-8, in a charity professional football game before 7000 in Gilmore stadium yesterday.

Smith, bulky former All-America tackle of U. S. C., unlimbered his five times for 11 points—nine on field goals, and two on conversions.

Kankakee Pays Tribute To Two Grid Heroes

KANKAKEE, Ill., (UP)—This city of 21,000 today pays tribute to its most famous sons—Cadet Harry Stalla and Midshipman Allen Bergner, captains respectively of the 1939 Army and Navy football teams.

Residents replaced Christmas decorations with red, white and blue windows. A thousand townspeople will jam the local armory tonight for a banquet honoring the two boys.

Never before have two boys from the same town captured the rival service eleven. Townspeople, who still are trying to bring the 1939 Army-Navy game to Chicago—because "it's the next best thing to Kankakee, where the game really belongs"—will pay $2.50 a plate.

For those who can't afford that, there will be a special reception tomorrow night at the Kankakee high school auditorium.

Gunther's Homer Proves Payoff

FULLERTON (UP)—With Big Fritz Gunther, Orange truck driver, blasting a home run with bases loaded, the Fullerton Firemen pulled another Southern California semi-pro winter league triumph from the fire yesterday by beating the Red Sox, 7 to 6.

The game was Fullerton's sixth successive league triumph and the 13th straight victory. The Firemen have dropped but one game in the last 19 and boast an unblemished league record.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Completing plans for installation of officers to be held Tuesday, January 3, Calumpit Auxiliary U. S. W. V. met last week in Knights of Columbus hall. Mrs. Ida McLaughlin of Hollywood, department chairman, will conduct installation after a dinner at Dan's, with Effie Hawley and Phoebe Hyatt in charge of arrangements.

Three new members were initiated during the meeting conducted by Ruth Hess. Mrs. Cora Graham was elected assistant to fill the office vacated by the resignation of Mrs. Anna Gail. It was reported that $41.77 had been expended for relief, and $51.52 for child welfare. Refreshments were served by Ada Treat, Bertha Brown and Gertrude Rowe.

Camp and auxiliary will hold covered-dish dinner Tuesday at 6 p. m. in the hall. On the committee in charge will be Mesdames Anna Bateman, Susan Wine, Bertha Brown, Mary King, Nannie Reed, Haskell and Erskine. There will be a Christmas tree and program.

Identity of mystery sisters was revealed Thursday during a meeting of Magnolia Circle R.N.A. in the home of Mrs. Walter Dunlap, 402 Orange avenue. New names were drawn as gifts were exchanged around the Christmas tree.

Bouquets of poinsettia and coconuts added to the festive setting which Mrs. Dunlap and her co-hostess, Mrs. Marguerite Crawford had arranged for the occasion. Mrs. Clara Blackwell provided some of the holly wood.

Assisting in serving covered-dish luncheon were Mesdames Elita Sweet, Jean Tibbets, Bert Crozier and Mae Thomas. Guests were Mrs. Crozier, Miss Lila Mae Fink, Miss Clara Cullum, Mrs. Frank Albrecht, this city; and Mrs. Ada Kessler of San Diego. Twenty-one members were present.

Mrs. Isabel Fink conducted a business meeting during which plans were made to hold the next event the fourth Thursday in January in the home of Mrs. Minnie Squier on the 101 highway.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(UP)—Tax selling forced stocks down fractions to more than a point today after early steadiness. Trading was moderately active.

Bonds turned irregularly lower after an early firm tone. Wheat and corn close on gains ranging to 1/4 bushel, while cotton futures were barely steady.

While tax selling of stocks today was not heavier than had been anticipated, buying was in smaller volume than had been hoped for by the bull faction in reflection of the seasonal contraction in some business lines.

Congress Faces Test For Democratic Party Rule

CONSERVATIVES GIRD FOR FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(UP)—The 76th Congress, elected last month in the first major New Deal political reverse, meets one week from today for a prolonged contest over control of the Democratic party.

Anti-administration Democrats are maneuvering to divert the New Deal to less experimental paths leading directly to the nomination of a conservative presidential candidate in 1940. None is yet certain whether President Roosevelt will compromise or fight. Neither is it established that conservative Democrats will go through with their plan to regain a controlling voice in party affairs. That each decides party control is undisputed.

Mr. Roosevelt will define the general battle lines in two messages to be delivered during the first week of the new Congress. On Jan. 4 he will deliver his annual message to a joint session of House and Senate. The budget message probably will be read to Congress by clerks the following day.

The nature of Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations and especially his spending plans for the next fiscal year will determine how far conservative Democrats will carry their rebellion.

It is known that the President will devote more than customary attention this time to foreign affairs. There are indications that the administration is approaching the new year and the new Congress with national solidarity for national defense a major 1940 objective.

Conservative Democrats, however, are planning to force some changes in Roosevelt domestic policies, notably the method of spending relief money. On the issue of relief and related questions, not 1940 political conflicts are expected. Economy and budget balancing are to some extent factors in the approaching spending wars. But Congress appears to be less economy-minded than determined that the spending prerogatives consistently voted to Mr. Roosevelt since March 4, 1933, shall hereafter be restored to Congress.

The method proposed to restore to Congress spending authority, which would extend from the treasury doors to the actual expenditure on relief and other projects in the field, is to "earmark" forth coming funds for specific purposes. The New Deal spending system has required Congress to vote large lump-sum appropriations to the president—those sums have been called "blank checks"—upon which the White House drew to allocate money to the states or to local communities.

An almost immediate showdown is coming in the new Congress on the questions of administration spending and "relief in politics." The Works Progress Administration is going broke again, rather more rapidly than had been expected. It will be necessary next month for Congress to appropriate new funds to pay the unemployed from about Feb. 7 to June 30, 1939, when the current fiscal year ends. Mr. Roosevelt probably will ask for that appropriation next week in his budget message. The earmarking dispute will begin then and will continue for final decision later in the session when Congress will appropriate relief funds for the next fiscal year.

OCEANVIEW

OCEANVIEW, Dec. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. George Jamison and daughter, Miss Phyllis Jamison, spent Christmas day in Santa Ana as guests at a family party at which their son, John Jamison, and wife were hosts. Mrs. George Jamison, Miss Phyllis Jamison and Miss Isabelle Syracuse, of Huntington Beach, spent a part of the holiday vacation at Palm Springs.

The Biscaulz family was being entertained at Christmas dinner in the home of friends at Huntington Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hubbard and family joined relatives at Christmas dinner at Midway City where Mrs. Edna Gill acted as hostess.

BUMPER CROP OF NEW BILLS EXPECTED WHEN SOLONS MEET

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth and last of a series of articles on the problems confronting the 1939 legislature. Previous stories discussed Gov. Elect Culbert L. Olson, lobbying and lawyer-legislators; pensions, unemployment and relief; taxation, and labor. The United Press polled all members of the senate and assembly and today presents miscellaneous information not falling under the previous headings.

BY JOHN W. DUNLAP

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 27.—(UP)—The varied resources, industries and sections of California always result in a hodge-podge of jumbled legislation every two years and the bumper crop of bills expected at the 1939 session will be no exception.

Every one of the 80 assemblymen and 40 senators has his brief case bulging with bills to present, some on purely home town matters, some involving a county or two and the rest affecting the entire state. The first 30-day session will be devoted entirely to introducing bills and referring to committees. Several thousand will be dumped into the hopper, far more than any single legislator could possibly read or understand.

Garrison Act

Public ownership of utilities is a perennial subject of debate and the Garrison revenue bond act passed both houses in 1937 and was signed by Gov. Frank Merriam. The measure was put up as a referendum at the Nov. 8 election, however, and was defeated three-to-one. Gov. Elect Culbert Olson will lead the fight to reenact the liberalization plan, which provides that a majority vote instead of the present two-thirds margin be necessary to vote revenue bonds and further, that the liquidation be taken from the revenue and not from taxes. Public utilities fought the measure and helped finance the campaign against it.

Assemblymen voted three to one in the United Press poll in favor of public ownership of utilities and the same number said they would vote for another revenue bond act. The senate was about equally divided on both questions.

Fight Looms

A new drive against capital punishment is anticipated because of controversy over California's new lethal gas chamber at San Quentin. Five Folsom prison rioters went to their deaths in December while the old arguments on hanging and lethal gas were polished up again. A slight majority in both senate and assembly favored capital punishment with gas chosen over hanging almost two to one. The firing squad received little support, although

SILVERADO

SILVERADO, Dec. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. James S. Jamieson and two children, Scotty and Barbara Rae, entertained visitors recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Savage, of Laguna Beach, were hosts recently to friends at the cabin of Mrs. Savage's mother, Mrs. Ethel Burns in the Hough tract. Mrs. Burns has left to spend the winter in Honolulu.

Mrs. Walter Evans, of Shady Brook, and Mrs. B. T. Petri, of Cablinland, have returned home following a short business trip to Santa Maria.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spenter, of Long Beach, recently spent a day at their cabin in Shady Brook.

George J. Baker of the Hough tract, celebrated his birthday recently.

Mrs. Daniel M. Waite, of Shady Brook, is confined to her home with a severe attack of appendicitis. Her daughter, Mrs. John Stocker, of Redlands, is with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Lindgard and daughter, Miss Leone Lindgard, of Santa Ana, have rented the Shady Brook cabin of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Convey, for an indefinite period.

Miss Lilly Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Thomas, who was taken to the hospital two weeks ago, is reported improved.

Miss Marguerite Cox, of Whittier, daughter of Mrs. I. C. Donovan, of Silverado and Joel Cunningham, of Long Beach, were married at Yuma recently.

HEALTH GROUP PLANS PROGRAM

A program devoted to a resume of the work of the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, in its constant battle to eradicate tuberculosis from Orange county, will be presented tonight at the Unitarian church, it was announced today by the Rev. Julia Paulson, pastor of the church.

The program, to which the public is invited, will open promptly at 7:45 p. m.

Work Portrayed

Included on the program will be a short talk by a member of the speaker's bureau of the tuberculosis and health association; playing of a recording presenting a drama used this year in national ter-broadcasts, and two reels of sound motion pictures. The pictures include "Story of My Life by Tee Bee," a cartoon; and "Let My People Live," a dramatic account of the work being done to banish tuberculosis from the colored race in the United States.

Beautiful Spirituals

"Let My People Live" is a new sound picture produced for the National Tuberculosis association. It features an all-negro cast headed by Rex Ingram, who played "De Lawd" in "Green Pastures." Beautiful negro spirituals are sung during the showing of the film.

The Unitarian church is located at the corner of Eighth and Bush streets in Santa Ana.
